Reimagining Industrial Sites Catherine Heatherington, 2017-12-06 The discourse around derelict former industrial and military sites has grown in recent years This interest is not only theoretical and landscape professionals are taking new approaches to the design and development of these sites This book examines the varied ways in which the histories and qualities of these derelict sites are reimagined in the transformed landscape and considers how such approaches can reveal the dramatic changes that have been wrought on these places over a relatively short time scale It discusses these issues with reference to eleven sites from the UK Germany the USA Australia and China focusing specifically on how designers incorporate evidence of landscape change both cultural and natural There has been little research into how these developed landscapes are perceived by visitors and local residents This book examines how the tangible material traces of pastness are interpreted by the visitor and the impact of the intangible elements hidden traces experiences and memories The book draws together theory in the field and implications for practice in landscape architecture and concludes with an examination of how different approaches to revealing and reimagining change can affect the future management of the site

Exiled in East Germany Sebastian Pampuch, 2024-04-22 The presence of Africans in the German Democratic Republic is very rarely thought of in connection with the experience of exile Instead Africans in the GDR are predominantly viewed through the prism of educational and labor migration While such research has undoubtedly produced valuable insights it often fails to adequately account for the implicit Eurocentrism methodological nationalism and anti communist bias inherent in Western knowledge production This study offers a different approach Through biographical portrayal it unfolds the life stories of African freedom fighters who lived in exile in the GDR and ultimately remained in reunified Germany with the main case study being a Malawian activist who was expelled from East to West Berlin Recounting his experiences along with those of some South African exiles chief among them a former medical worker for the ANC's armed wing the study ethnographically reconstructs the multiple entanglements between the Second and Third worlds from the vantage point of the politically displaced within the concrete historical contexts of African decolonization the struggle against the Malawian Banda dictatorship and the struggle against South African apartheid

Engineering the Environment David P. D. Munns, 2017-07-19 Promising an end to global hunger and political instability huge climate controlled laboratories known as phytotrons spread around the world to thirty countries after the Second World War The United States built nearly a dozen including the first at Caltech in 1949 Made possible by computers and other novel greenhouse technologies of the early Cold War phytotrons enabled plant scientists to experiment on the environmental causes of growth and development of living organisms Subsequently they turned biologists into technologists who in their pursuit of knowledge about plants also set out to master the machines that controlled their environment Engineering the Environment tells the forgotten story of a research program that revealed the shape of the environment the limits of growth and development and the limits of human control over complex technological systems As support and funding for basic science dwindled in the mid 1960s phytotrons declined and ultimately disappeared until nearly thirty years later the British built the Ecotron to study the impact of climate change on biological communities By revisiting this history of phytotrons David Munns reminds us of the vital role they can play in helping researchers unravel the complexities of natural ecosystems in the Anthropocene The Handbook of Food and Anthropology Jakob A.

Klein,James L. Watson,2016-08-25 Winner of the CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title of the Year Award 2017 Interest in the anthropology of food has grown significantly in recent years This is the first handbook to provide a detailed overview of all major areas of the field 20 original essays by leading figures in the discipline examine traditional areas of research as well as cutting edge areas of inquiry Divided into three parts Food Self and Others Food Security Nutrition and Food Safety Food as Craft Industry and Ethics the book covers topics such as identity commensality locality migration ethical consumption artisanal foods and children s food Each chapter features rich ethnography alongside wider analysis of the subject Internationally renowned scholars offer insights into their core areas of specialty Examples include Michael Herzfeld on culinary stereotypes David Sutton on how to conduct an anthropology of cooking Johan Pottier on food insecurity and Melissa Caldwell on practicing food anthropology The book also features exceptional geographic and cultural diversity with chapters on South Asia South Africa the United States of America post socialist societies Maoist China and Muslim and Jewish foodways Invaluable as a reference as well as for teaching The Handbook of Food and Anthropology serves to define this increasingly important field An essential resource for researchers and students in anthropology and food studies The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1865 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1865 The Cultivator & Country Gentleman ,1877 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1994 Elites Murray Milner, Jr.,2015-01-08 At a time when significant social status economic resources and political opportunities seem to become ever more unequally distributed and only available to a few this book represents the first systematic effort in recent years to develop a sociological model of elites and non elites In outlining a new typology of economic political and cultural elites as well as drawing attention to the important role of non elites this accessibly written book provides novel insights into the structure of historical and contemporary societies Milner identifies the sources and structures of economic political and cultural power and investigates patterns of cooperation and conflict between and within elite groups Analyzing politicians and propagandists landowners and capitalists national heroes and celebrities ordinary folks and outcasts the book applies its model to three distinctly different societies ancient India Classical Athens and the contemporary United States highlighting important structural commonalities across these otherwise very dissimilar societies

The Continuing Storm Kai Erikson,Lori Peek,2022-07-05

More than fifteen years later Hurricane Katrina maintains a strong grip on the American imagination The reason is not simply that Katrina was an event of enormous scale although it certainly was by any measure one of the most damaging storms in American history But quite apart from its lethality and destructiveness Katrina retains a place in living memory because it is one of the most telling disasters in our recent national experience revealing important truths about our society and ourselves The final volume in the award winning Katrina Bookshelf series The Continuing Storm reflects upon what we have learned about Katrina and about America Kai Erikson and Lori Peek expand our view of the disaster by assessing its ongoing impact on individual lives and across the wide ranging geographies where displaced New Orleanians landed after the storm Such an expanded view the authors argue is critical for understanding the human costs of catastrophe across time and space Concluding with a broader examination of disasters in the years since Katrina including COVID 19 The Continuing Storm is a sobering meditation on the duration of a catastrophe that continues to exact steep costs in human suffering
