Douglass, 2014-09-11 All interpretive systems deal with the author Modern systems consider the text to be autonomous so that it is disconnected from the author's interests In Reading the Bible Ethically Eric Douglass reconsiders this connection His central argument is that the author is a subject who reproduces her culture and her subjectivity in the text As the author reproduces her subjectivity the text functions as the author's voice This allows Douglass to apply ethical principles to interpretation where that voice is treated as a subject for conversation and not an object for manipulation He uses this to texture the reading process so that an initial reading takes account of the author's communication while a second reading critiques that communication Miracle and Magic Andy Reimer, 2002-12-01 Miracle workers and magicians are difficult characters for contemporary readers of Greco Roman narratives to comprehend and to distinguish Hindered both by our modern definitions of miracle and magic we need to focus our attention on those ancient texts that deal with such characters and their differentiation Two such texts the Acts of the Apostles and Philostratus Life of Apollonius come from quite different religious backgrounds but demonstrate remarkably similar subtle cultural scripts at play A detailed investigation of the social interactions in these two narrative

Is God still doing miracles today Because of the many claims of charismaticism a rather detailed biblical study of the matter is warranted We defend the following conclusions Modern miracle workers cannot demonstrate the attributes of biblical ones and are lying when they claim similar gifts There are no God sent miracle workers in Scripture that were not also sources of new direct divine revelation to be believed and obeyed as the word of God The faith to perform or receive a miracle is just as supernatural and God given as the miracle itself and modern faith healers are wrong to blame disappointed followers for their lack of such faith The Church has universally testified that the gifts of miracle working ceased in the early Church with the completion of the NT The fraud in the modern miracle movement has been immense Other legitimate explanations for modern miracles are intriguing and even alarming      The Life and Words of Christ Cunningham Geikie,1880
