Chapter 43 Active Reading Guide Global Ecology and Conservation Biology

Overview

In the overview at the beginning of the chapter, the author sets the stage for this final chapter of the book. Let's begin by defining conservation biology.

Section 1

1. Ecologists organize biodiversity on three levels. In the table below, explain the impact of decreasing diversity in each division. Before answering this question, read to page 883, where the topic changes to threats to biodiversity.

Level of Biodiversity	Impact
Genetic Diversity	If one population becomes extinct, then a species may have lost some of the genetic diversity that makes microevolution possible. The erosion of genetic diversity in turn reduces the adaptive potential of the species.
Species Diversity	As more species are lost to extinction, species diversity decreases. Many species that are threatened could potentially provide food, fibers, and medicines for human use, making biodiversity a crucial human resource. Additionally, each loss of a species means the loss of unique genes, some of which may code for enormously useful proteins.
Ecosystem Diversity	There is growing evidence that the functioning of ecosystems, and hence their capacity to perform services, is linked to biodiversity. As human activities reduce biodiversity, we are reducing the capacity of the planet's ecosystems to perform processes critical to our own survival.

2. Explain the difference between endangered species and threatened species. An endangered species is one that is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. A threatened species is one that is considered likely to become
