Don't Blame the Parents: Corrective Scripts and the Development of Problems in Families Rudi Dallos, 2019-10-07 This invaluable contribution to working with families whether as a family therapist clinician or parent offers insight into how problems for families and children arise and what can help. Don't Blame the Parents explores the ubiquitous issue of blame and responsibility in families especially of parents feeling blamed for causing or exacerbating problems. The book examines problems that we all encounter in family relationships whether with children's behaviour marital anxiety or not feeling like we are the effective parent that we intend to be. Blame can restrict our ability as therapists clinicians and family members to explore family dynamics and responsibility for emerging problems in a constructive and progressive way. It can prevent exploration of family dynamics and of finding workable options for long term positive change and better understanding the role of the family unit. The book draws on attachment and systemic perspectives on family therapy to support the view that parents generally intend to repeat or correct positive childhood experiences while exploring why these intentions may become derailed. Seminal and contemporary research as well as clinical cases feature all with an eye to fostering positive and responsible families. Rudi Dallos offers us a thoughtful and helpful deconstruction of the crucial ethical and therapeutic differences between blame and responsibility in family life. Drawing on his integration of trauma theory and attachment theory with systemic theory and practice he explores the vexed questions of causality context and intergenerational influences in the understanding and alleviation of distress in close relationships. Arlene Vetere, Professor of Family Therapy and Systemic Practice, VID Specialized University, Oslo, Norway.

How Parents Deal with the Education of Their Child on the Autism Spectrum Jasmine McDonald, 2014-11-26. Powerful moral, social justice and political arguments have convinced parents that it is their democratic right to place their children on the autism spectrum into mainstream educational environments so that their children may eventually take up their rightful place in a mainstream adult life. But what is really happening for some of these parents when they try to gain and maintain an appropriate education for their child in these mainstream contexts and beyond? What is the educational experience like for these families who are in the midst of this generational change from historical exclusion to inclusion? Current research indicates that while islands of excellent mainstream inclusive practice do exist, the educational experience for many students on the autism spectrum can often be one of hostility, inconsistency and unreliability. Without appropriate understanding of best practice educational methods, these students can present an inordinate educational challenge to both parents and educators alike. How do parents deal with such complex educational profiles? How do they continue to maximize their children's development over time? What are the barriers that hinder their quest? What are the facilitators that help their quest? To answer these questions, this book provides an in-depth, recent examination of the real-life journeys of families who attempted to gain an appropriate education for their children on the autism spectrum, including the areas of diagnosis, early intervention, mainstream schooling, home education, segregated schooling and transition to work and further study. Jasmine McDonald, BA DipEd MSpecEd Hons PhD, is affiliated with the Telethon Kids Institute, University of Western Australia, Perth, Australia. Her current work includes trialling a peer-to-peer mentoring program for tertiary students on the autism spectrum. This program runs at Curtin University in Western Australia and will be replicated and evaluated at the University of Western Australia. The results will eventually be shared through the Australian Government Autism Cooperative Research Centre (CRC) website: <http://www.autismcrc.com.au>.
