

3. What must an administrator have in order to reset a lost password on a router?

- a TFTP server
- a crossover cable
- access to another router
- physical access to the router

4. When configuring a switch for SSH access, what other command that is associated with the login local command is required to be entered on the switch?

- enable secret password
- password password
- username username secret *secret
- login block-for seconds attempts number within seconds

5. Which command displays information about the auto-MDIX setting for a specific interface?

- show interfaces
- show controllers
- show processes
- show running-config

Explanation: To examine the auto-MDIX setting for a specific interface, the show controllers ethernet-controller command with the phy keyword should be used.

6. If one end of an Ethernet connection is configured for full duplex and the other end of the connection is configured for half duplex, where would late collisions be observed?

- on both ends of the connection
- on the full-duplex end of the connection
- only on serial interfaces
- on the half-duplex end of the connection

Explanation: Full-duplex communications do not produce collisions. However, collisions often occur in half-duplex operations. When a connection has two different duplex configurations, the half-duplex end will experience late collisions. Collisions are found on Ethernet networks.
