

Ithaca Model 72 Rifle

A few years back, the Ithaca company briefly made a .22 lever-action repeating rifle called the model 49-R. One unusual aspect of the design was the use of a vertically sliding carrier to move the cartridge from magazine level up to align with the chamber. The system was reminiscent of the one used in the old Winchester Model 73 guns. When the Model 49-R was discontinued, this feature was carried over into the early production of the gun that replaced it in the Ithaca line, the Model 72. The carrier was operated by a lever pivoted at the rear, and its lowered position was adjusted by a small Allen screw on the underside of the lower frame. The location of this screw, just forward of the trigger, led some shooters to assume that it was for adjustment of the trigger, and when they fooled around with it, the carrier ceased to function properly, failing to pick up the next round from the magazine. In extreme cases, this could even cause breakage of the carrier lever.

In guns of more recent production,

After the stock is taken off, removal of four side screws allows this unusual takedown of the receiver.
