Aluya D. B. A.,Joseph U. Aluya,Ossian L. Garraway D. B. A.,Ossian L. Garraway,2010 In this book the global implications of solar wind or hybrid as an alternative energy is critically examined and explained In Brazil China Canada Cuban Germany Nigeria Swiss and the United States leadership styles affect finding alternative sources of energy that will complement fossil fuels hydro or nuclear power supply We explain contrast and compare various global leadership perspectives as its affect alternative energy sources

Leadership styles and political considerations become the trajectories in the introduction of innovative disruptive technologies. Seven billion people worldwide have inadequate supply of energy (United Nations 2010). In developing nations, hydropower supply has resulted in consistent brown outs. In developed nations, the lack of clean nuclear power raises safety concerns. In rural areas in developed nations, fossil fuels, hydropower, and nuclear power have not met the demand for energy supply (Jeter 2004; Ogden 1999). The background of solar wind and nanotechnologies are congruently explained. Nanotechnology is introduced, and elements within the innovative systems are considered disruptive technologies. Nanotechnology as a disruptive technology includes capability of self-replicating machines, robots, and the production of molecular-sized computers (Merkle 2009; Uldrich 2006). Nanotechnology as a disruptive technology also has the capacity to improve human lives globally. Hypothesis deduced from this study revealed that solar wind or hybrid could not replace hydropower or nuclear power; rather, it should complement the existing energy supply. Solar wind or hybrid should, however, disrupt the existing systems to the point of setting a new paradigm, shifting new frontiers in global mindset and reasoning (Martins, Ruther, Pereira, Abreu 2008). Situational leadership style trumps other forms of leadership styles in the implementations of alternative energy, and while introducing nanotech from proposal to fruition, we conclude this study by explaining factors embedded in the decision-making processes of introducing the benefits of alternative energy globally.
