For several questions, it would be helpful to have a mental representation of a lens (focal length) from your ray-tracing packet including an example of a lens.

1. Look at your lens in the form of that packet (the ruler shows the focal length). Which way are you?

Let's start again.The focal length of a lens is the distance of a parallel ray.

2. Which way are you when you look at your lens? The focal length of a lens is 1 cm right side up.

The focal length of a lens is the distance of a parallel ray.Classroom Activity

Two other things that are important to know about a lens are the focal length and the focal point. Light rays passing through the lens will converge at the focal point.

The focal point is the point where the light rays converge. The focal length is the distance from the lens to the focal point. The focal point is the point where the light rays converge.

3. The focal point is the point where the light rays converge. The focal length is the distance from the lens to the focal point. The focal point is the point where the light rays converge.
