

Refutation Paragraph

Although the opposition argues that allowing the use of backpacks during the school day poses a safety threat, this assertion is unfounded. The opposition claims allowing backpacks in the classroom will only increase the possibility of students bringing in drugs and weapons into school. Certainly, this is the case in many high-crime urban areas; however, South Western High School sits in a relatively safe, semi-rural community. Most students are respectful, rule-abiding citizens who want a decent education. In fact, we have no gangs and few fights in our school. Any drug-related issues in the past have been minor, isolated cases involving one or two students who were immediately expelled. Furthermore, the last weapons violation occurred approximately ten years ago, and that student turned himself in upon arriving to school on a Monday, when he realized he had forgotten to remove his hunting knife from his backpack after a weekend of camping with his Boy Scouts troop. This student was also expelled. Thus, this argument against backpacks because they invite criminal behavior is erroneous at best.

The Myth of the Intuitive Max Emil Deutsch, 2015-04-24

A defense of traditional philosophical method against challenges from practitioners of experimental philosophy In The Myth of the Intuitive Max Deutsch defends the methods of analytic philosophy against a recent empirical challenge mounted by the practitioners of experimental philosophy xphi This challenge concerns the extent to which analytic philosophy relies on intuition in particular the extent to which analytic philosophers treat intuitions as evidence in arguing for philosophical conclusions Experimental philosophers say that analytic philosophers place a great deal of evidential weight on people's intuitions about hypothetical cases and thought experiments Deutsch argues forcefully that this view of traditional philosophical method is a myth part of metaphilosophical folklore and he supports his argument with close examinations of results from xphi and of a number of influential arguments in analytic philosophy Analytic philosophy makes regular use of hypothetical examples and thought experiments but Deutsch writes philosophers argue for their claims about what is true or not true in these examples and thought experiments It is these arguments not intuitions that are treated as evidence for the claims Deutsch discusses xphi and some recent xphi studies critiques a variety of other metaphilosophical claims examines such famous arguments as Gettier's refutation of the JTB justified true belief theory and Kripke's G del Case argument against descriptivism about proper names and shows that they rely on reasoning rather than intuition and finds existing critiques of xphi the Multiple Concepts and Expertise replies to be severely lacking
