For The Love Of Air English Edition:

An Empire of Air and Water Siobhan Carroll, 2015-03-04 Planetary spaces such as the poles the oceans the atmosphere and subterranean regions captured the British imperial imagination Intangible inhospitable or inaccessible these blank spaces what Siobhan Carroll calls atopias existed beyond the boundaries of known and inhabited places The eighteenth century conceived of these geographic outliers as the natural limits of imperial expansion but scientific and naval advances in the nineteenth century created new possibilities to know and control them This development preoccupied British authors who were accustomed to seeing atopic regions as otherworldly marvels in fantastical tales Spaces that an empire could not colonize were spaces that literature might claim as literary representations of atopias came to reflect their authors attitudes toward the growth of the British Empire as well as the part they saw literature playing in that expansion Siobhan Carroll interrogates the role these blank spaces played in the construction of British identity during an era of unsettling global circulations Examining the poetry of Samuel T Coleridge and George Gordon Byron and the prose of Sophia Lee Mary Shelley and Charles Dickens as well as newspaper accounts and voyage narratives she traces the ways Romantic and Victorian writers reconceptualized atopias as threatening or at times vulnerable These textual explorations of the earth s highest reaches and secret depths shed light on persistent facets of the British global and environmental imagination that linger in the twenty first century The Works of Robert Boyle, Part I Vol 1 Michael Hunter, Edward B Davis, 2024-10-28 Including all Robert Boyle s published works this is the first seven volumes of a 14 volume set All texts are fully annotated and comprehensively indexed Works originally in Latin are presented in their contemporary English translations Words in Air Elizabeth Bishop, Robert Lowell, 2024-05-01 Three decades of correspondence between two great twentieth century American poets A brilliant testament to the pleasure and power of good company These two lifetimes of mutual admiration make for irresistible reading Oprah com Words in Air takes its place amid the letters of Keats and Hopkins and Owen as one of the great poetic correspondences The Atlantic Robert Lowell once remarked in a letter to Elizabeth Bishop You have always been my favorite poet and favorite friend The feeling was mutual Bishop said that conversation with Lowell left her feeling picked up again to the proper table land of poetry and she once begged him Please never stop writing me letters they always manage to make me feel like my higher self I ve been re reading Emerson for several days Neither ever stopped writing letters from their first meeting in 1947 when both were young newly launched poets until Lowell s death in 1977 Presented in Words in Air is the complete correspondence between Bishop and Lowell The substantial revealing and often very funny interchange that they produced stands as a remarkable collective achievement notable for its sustained conversational brilliance of style its wealth of literary history its incisive snapshots and portraits of people and places and its delicious literary gossip as well as for the window it opens into the unfolding human and artistic drama of two of America s most beloved and influential poets The pleasures of this remarkable correspondence lie in the untiring way these poets entertained each other with the comic inadequacies of the world The New York Times Book Review Words in Air may be the only book of its precise kind ever published the lifelong correspondence between two artists of equal genius The New Yorker This volume takes its place along with the correspondence between Edmund Wilson and Vladimir Nabokov or Kingsley Amis and Philip Larkin as consummated examples of wit affection and indeed in the case of Bishop and Lowell love Boston Sunday Globe
