With the Whole Child in Mind Linda Darling-Hammond, Channa M. Cook-Harvey, Lisa Flook, Madelyn Gardner, Hanna Melnick, 2018-10-22

Among the many models of school reform that have emerged in the late 20th and early 21st centuries, one has endured for more than 50 years: the School Development Program (SDP). Established in 1968 by renowned child psychiatrist James P. Comer and the Yale Child Study Center, the SDP is grounded in the belief that successful schooling, particularly for children from disadvantaged backgrounds, must focus on the whole child. With that in mind, the SDP encompasses both academics and social-emotional development and is founded on positive and productive relationships among students, teachers, school leaders, and parents. With the Whole Child in Mind describes the SDP's six developmental pathways: cognitive, social, psychological, physical, linguistic, and ethical, and explains how the program's nine key components, in the form of mechanisms, operations, and guiding principles, create a comprehensive approach to educating children for successful outcomes. Firsthand recollections by Comer, school leaders, and teachers, and SDP staff members provide an inside look at the challenges and successes that eventually transformed severely underperforming schools into models of excellence.

Linda Darling-Hammond, one of the country's foremost experts on K-12 education, and her colleagues argue persuasively for the continuing relevance of the SDP. Far too many schools still operate in a high-pressure environment that emphasizes testing and standardized curricula while ignoring the fundamental importance of personal connections that make a profound difference for students. Fifty years on, the SDP is still just as powerful as ever.

The Brave Learner

Julie Bogart, 2019-02-05 Publishers Weekly bestseller. A joyful and accessible homeschool guide to making learning a part of everyday life. Parents who are deeply invested in their children's education can be hard on themselves and their kids. When exhausted parents are living the day-to-day grind, it can seem impossible to muster enough energy to make learning fun or interesting. How do parents nurture a love of learning amid childhood chaos, parental self-doubt, the flu, and state academic standards? In this book, Julie Bogart distills decades of experience homeschooling her five now-grown children, developing curricula, and training homeschooling families around the world to show parents how to make education an exciting, even enchanting experience for their kids, whether they're in elementary or high school. Enchantment is about ease, not striving. Bogart shows parents how to make room for surprise, mystery, risk, and adventure in their family's routine so they can create an environment that naturally moves learning forward. If a child wants to pick up a new hobby or explore a subject area that the parent knows little about, it's easy to simply say no to end the discussion and the parental discomfort while dousing their child's curious spark. Bogart gently invites parents to model brave learning for their kids so they too can approach life with curiosity, joy, and the courage to take learning risks.
