

Human Growth and Development Case Study

The paper is focused primarily on cognitive, physical, and social developments. This paper will discuss the relationship I see between theories of observing and planning and theories of development in childhood education. Michael is 6 years and 11 months old. It is October and he is in first class. Michael rarely makes contact, and when he is directly asked to do so he turns and looks at the back wall of the classroom. He displays this behavior also when asked to participate in group work.

When in class he maintains a low level of continuous dialogue which is never directed towards other students. When he asks questions in class they never have any relevance to the immediate context of the lesson. When he talks to other students he talks at them rather than to them and does not require a response. It is also evident in his interaction with the teacher that his conversation lacks any element of transaction. He demonstrates a literal understanding of instruction I. E. Recently he was told to sit down and finish his work and not to move until he was finished.

Michael did finish the work but continued to sit all through lunch until the teacher on yard duty noticed him sitting in the empty classroom. He reported he had been told not to move. It is clear that he does not understand facial expressions and body language and communication needs to be kept at a very concrete and unambiguous level. Increasingly he is becoming socially isolated in the class as he displays little interest in the other children and they find his behavior difficult to understand.

At a time in their lives when children are beginning to form real friendships his difficulties are becoming more apparent in the social area. He means quiet frequently that the other children call him a baby out in the yard and this has become an issue with his parents as they claim he is being bullied in the art. Close observation of Michael reveals that he does in fact behave in a babyish manner quiet a lot of time and lacks levels of independence consistent with his age group. He along with the rest of his class has completed the Micro T. And Stigma T. Sets of reading and math attainment. On both tests Michael scores two standard deviations above the norm indicating that his intellectual ability is very high. This in turn calls into question his lack of ability to function in the social and communication areas. A report is compiled for all students prior to the annual parent teacher meeting. When completing Michael's report form the only option for the teacher is to tick "poor" in all the sections relating to social development. At the parent teacher meeting Michael's social and communication skills become the focus of the discussion.

They reluctantly agree that they had noticed some worrying behavior particularly when they compared his development to that of their younger son who is four. They report that they try to provide Michael with opportunities to socialize but that on occasion when he invites

ECONOMIC INEQUALITY AND GROWTH A new look through Human Capital as you designed and shown DR SANTANU RAY

CHAUDHURI,2023-08-03 This book tries to portray the link between economic inequality and long run growth via human capital and the major take of the book is to analyze the growth panorama through the lens of the idea or knowledge generation which is eventually considered as the engine of growth being fueled by productivity enhancement through the innovations of new technologies But this is not the end of the story as it involves enormous controversies Simply the controversy started with the basic question why are some countries richer than other countries To put it in another way why growth is a miracle why it is not driven homogeneously for economies or whether the economies would converge or not Another issue is predominantly crucial that is economic inequality in the process of economic expansion In this context the present book has given emphasis in explaining the selective growth theories starting from classical foundation to new growth theories including their inner implications in the passage of history of economic growth In consequence the vast landscape of theoretical contours about political philosophies and model analyses of economic growth including diverse generic versions of the said link between economic expansion and distribution are explained and the most important feature of the textbook is that the link is explored by focusing on a single factor human capital The prime emphasis of the present textbook is to look at the link between growth inequality and human capital accumulation and their resultant outcomes in a new way as New Look by substantiating the issue through empirical analyses relating to the Indian States The whole journey of the book consists of the political philosophy models and empirics the trio without which the all around venture of economic theories would become incomplete For this reason the whole perspective of empirical analysis is done to keep in mind the necessities of the learners such that they should not feel awkward with a set of data It is in that context the empirical and structural issues are taken up to make the issues distinctively clearer with the presumption that the whole perspective would become then more delightful and easy to digest
