Ecology in Action Fred D. Singer,2016-03-10 Taking a fresh approach to integrating key concepts and research processes this undergraduate textbook encourages students to develop an understanding of how ecologists raise and answer real world questions Four unique chapters describe the development and evolution of different research programs in each of ecology's core areas showing students that research is undertaken by real people who are profoundly influenced by their social and political environments. Beginning with a case study to capture student interest, each chapter emphasizes the linkage between observations, ideas, questions, hypotheses, predictions, results, and conclusions. Discussion questions integrated within the text encourage active participation, and a range of end-of-chapter questions reinforce knowledge and encourage application of analytical and critical thinking skills to real ecological questions. Students are asked to analyze and interpret real data with support from online tutorials demonstrating the R programming language for statistical analysis.

Resources in Education, 2000-04 Meeting the Challenge, 2007

During September 19-20, 2006, a conference was held at the University of Washington Botanic Gardens, Seattle, WA, with the title "S2: Meeting the challenge: invasive plants in Pacific Northwest Ecosystems." The mission of the conference was to create strategies and partnerships to understand and manage invasions of non-native plants in the Pacific Northwest. The audience included over 180 professionals, students, and citizens from public and private organizations responsible for monitoring, studying, or managing non-native invasive plants. This proceedings includes twenty-seven papers based on oral presentations at the conference plus a synthesis paper that summarizes workshop themes, discussions, and related information. Topics include early detection and rapid response, control techniques, biology and impacts, management approaches, distribution and mapping of invasive plants, and partnerships, education, and outreach.
