

Internship Final Summary Paper Guidelines

All experiential learning students must complete a Final Summary Paper. The purpose of the Final Summary Paper is to clearly document that your learning has been an upper division, college-level learning experience. The Final Summary Paper should be a minimum of three-four (3-4) pages. Papers should be carefully written and follow established standards for college level writing (e.g., grammar, punctuation, spelling, clarity of expression). Your papers should be typed in a 12 point font and margins should be one inch all the way around. Please use double spacing.

The following topics are designed to help you clarify your thoughts, but in no way should limit what you include in your paper.

1. Analyze Learning Attained: Evaluation of Learning Objectives

Review each of your learning objectives from your agreement and write an evaluation of your internship performance which indicates why you reached this goal or why you failed to do so. Be sure to relate your evaluation statements to specific events of your internship.

2. Relate Experiences To Your Academic Program

Discuss in detail how your experiential learning provided or failed to provide opportunities to test specific theoretical concepts you learned in your academic coursework. Be sure to include specific examples which illustrate your perception of the relationship between theory and practice.

In your work with a practicing professional, what did you learn from that person in each of the following areas:

- a. How does this individual keep abreast of current theory and practice in his or her field?
- b. How does the professional person you worked with handle issues or situations at work which are related to those of the profession?
- c. What is the academic preparation and training of the practicing professional?
- d. Did your supervisor provide mentoring and help you make connections in your field?

Assessment for Experiential Learning Cecilia Ka Yuk Chan, 2022-09-29 Chan's book explores the challenges in assessing experiential learning deepens our understanding and inspires readers to think critically about the purpose of assessment in experiential learning Experiential learning has been studied and proven to be effective for student learning particularly for the development of holistic competencies i.e. 21st century skills soft skills transferable skills considered essential for individuals to succeed in the increasingly global and technology infused 21st century society Universities around the world are now actively organising experiential learning activities or programmes for students to gain enriching and diversified learning experiences however the assessment of these programmes tends to be limited unclear and contested Assessment plays a central role in education policies and students approach to learning But do educators know how to assess less traditional learning such as service learning entrepreneurship cross discipline or cross cultural projects internships and student exchanges While the current assessment landscape is replete with assessments that measure knowledge of core content areas such as mathematics law languages science and social studies there is a lack of assessments and research that focus on holistic competencies How do we assess students ability to think critically problem solve adapt self manage and collaborate Central to the discussion in this book is the reason students are assessed and how they should be assessed to bring out their best learning outcomes Offering a collection of best assessment practice employed by teachers around the world this volume brings together both theoretical and empirical research that underpins assessment and perceptions of different stakeholders understanding of assessment in experiential learning from students teachers and policymakers The idea of assessment literacy also plays an important role in experiential learning for example reflection is often used in assessing students in experiential learning but how reflection literate are educators are they aware of the ethical dilemmas that arise in assessing students These questions are discussed in detail The volume also introduces a quality assurance programme to recognise student development within experiential learning programmes The book will be particularly informative to academic developers teachers students and community partners who struggle with the development and assessment for experiential learning those who plan to apply for funding in experiential learning and policymakers and senior managements seeking evidence and advice on fine tuning curricular assessment designs and quality assurance The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license      Engineering Education and Management Liangchi Zhang, Chunliang Zhang, 2011-11-23 This is the proceedings of the selected papers presented at 2011 International Conference on Engineering Education and Management ICEEM2011 held in Guangzhou China during November 18-20 2011 ICEEM2011 is one of the most important conferences in the field of Engineering Education and Management and is co-organized by Guangzhou University The University of New South Wales Zhejiang University and Xi'an Jiaotong University The conference aims to provide a high level international forum for scientists engineers and students to present their new advances and research results in the field of Engineering Education and Management This volume comprises 121 papers selected from over 400 papers originally submitted by universities and industrial concerns all over the world The papers specifically cover the topics of Management Science and Engineering Engineering Education and Training Project Engineering Management and Other related topics All of the papers were peer reviewed by selected experts The papers have been selected for this volume because of their quality and their relevancy to the topic This volume will provide readers with a broad overview of the latest advances in the field of Engineering Education and Management It will also constitute a valuable reference work for researchers in the fields of Engineering Education and Management      Federal Register ,1998-11-05

Development Perspectives Principles and Issues gives a broad overview of the various perspectives on the subject and acquaints the teachers and teacher educators with the principles of curriculum development It begins by giving the account of historical developments the philosophical and sociological basis and goes on to describe the processes and models in curriculum development This book approaches students in a way to enhance their interest in curriculum research Doing Academic Research Ekpe Inyang,2018-01-23 Written in simple and straightforward language this book will prove useful in reducing the stress that undergraduate students feel when conducting research and embarking on scientific writing It contains several essential aspects of general research methodology and simplifies important concepts and procedures that students need to fully grasp in order to tackle their academic assignments with confidence Assuming no previous knowledge on the part of the reader it is richly supported with examples and will serve as a friendly companion to any student who aims for academic excellence Practitioners in the field and even teachers of research methodology will also find the book useful as a revision guide Resources in Education ,2001-04 Organizational Careers Barney Glaser,2017-09-29 Although sociologists have written extensively on the broad subject of occupational careers generally they have referred only incidentally to organizational careers within work organizations In this pioneering sourcebook now considered a classic Glaser gathered from the literature of occupational sociology those studies that bear most directly on organizational careers His objective was to provide the first survey of the substantial body of data on the subject and to place this data in a framework that illustrates its significance for the development of theory In an extensive introduction the editor explains the several purposes of the book and describes in detail the process of comparative analysis through which sociological theory on organizational careers can be generated Organized around general themes such as recruitment motivation commitment mobility and succession the writings of prominent sociologists including Riesman Caplow Hughes Becker and Wilensky form the content of the book and systematically cover every important facet of organizational careers The editor s introductions to each section of the book alert the reader to the general phenomena such as processes conditions categories hypotheses and properties that crosscut and are generally relevant to all organizational careers and are therefore the raw material of theory These introductions also suggest questions and problems for further analysis and research This book as a whole stands as a demonstration of the contributors method of how the sociologist working from the data of research can generate grounded formal theory on this or any social phenomenon This book also presents a vital body of data on organizational careers and a guide to further research that will be of great use both to occupational sociologists and to all those involved in the study of organizations Assessing Communication Education William G. Christ,2013-11-05 Designed as a handbook this text provides media speech public speaking interpersonal small group and organizational communication and theatre educators with both the theoretical and practical ammunition to fight the assessment battles on their campuses The philosophical implications of accountability are balanced with concrete specific and usable assessment strategies Stressing student faculty course program department and institutional assessment this book's aim is to provide in one place information that will help diverse and complex communication programs face the growing challenges in assessment. The book is divided into three sections: background and foundational information for assessment; broad assessment strategies that apply to a variety of media, speech, and theatre courses and programs; and context-specific assessment strategies. While covering a host of topics, it provides an overview of assessment and suggests how it might impact communication education; discusses the elements of program assessment and how linkage of mission statements with outcomes can lead to strong, innovative programs; compares and contrasts regional association requirements and presents a specific how-to strategy for writing outcome statements; discusses teaching evaluation and argues that we need to identify the what of teaching before we try to measure the how; looks at creative ways for formative and summative course evaluation that starts with the creation of an explicit syllabus; discusses the use of capstone courses as a way of evaluating not only their major but also how students have integrated their total educational experience; suggests the variety of ways that interpersonal communication can be assessed and calls for future research that stresses the knowledge component of learning; reports on a strategy for developing small group communication assessment measures; and provides media, speech, and theatre faculty and administrators with the background, understanding, and tools to build stronger programs and develop better courses and educational experiences for their students.
