

Lesson 2 – Refraction and Total Internal Reflection

Refraction

- Refraction is the bending of light as it travels at an angle from one medium to another
- A refracted ray occurs when light transmits into a transparent material
- When light travels from a less optically dense medium into a more optically dense medium (i.e. air into glass), the refracted ray bends toward the normal
- If light travels through a substance and back into the original substance (i.e. air to glass to air), the refracted ray emerging from the glass will be parallel to the incident ray

n = index of refraction how quickly light can bend in a medium (ratio)
