Final Generic Environmental Impact Statement (New York State) ,1993-06 Assesses the possible environmental implication of the NY State regulations Annual Report of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University and the Agricultural Experiment Station ,1963 Annual Report of the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell University & the Cornell University Agricultural Experiment Station New York State College of Agriculture,1956 Models for Planning Wildlife Conservation in Large Landscapes Joshua Millspaugh, Frank R. Thompson,2011-04-28 A single resource volume of information on the most current and effective techniques of wildlife modeling Models for Planning Wildlife Conservation in Large Landscapes is appropriate for students and researchers alike The unique blend of conceptual methodological and application chapters discusses research applications and concepts of modeling and presents new ideas and strategies for wildlife habitat models used in conservation planning The book makes important contributions to wildlife conservation of animals in several ways 1 it highlights historical and contemporary advancements in the development of wildlife habitat models and their implementation in conservation planning 2 it provides practical advice for the ecologist conducting such studies and 3 it supplies directions for future research including new strategies for successful studies Intended to provide a recipe for successful development of wildlife habitat models and their implementation in conservation planning the book could be used in studying wildlife habitat models conservation planning and management techniques Additionally it may be a supplemental text in courses dealing with quantitative assessment of wildlife populations Additionally the length of the book would be ideal for graduate student seminar course Using wildlife habitat models in conservation planning is of considerable interest to wildlife biologists With ever tightening budgets for wildlife research and planning activities there is a growing need to use computer methods Use of simulation models represents the single best alternative However it is imperative that these techniques be described in a single source Moreover biologists should be made aware of alternative modeling techniques It is also important that practical guidance be provided to biologists along with a demonstration of utility of these procedures Currently there is little guidance in the wildlife or natural resource planning literature on how best to incorporate wildlife planning activities particularly community based approaches Now is the perfect time for a synthetic publication that clearly outlines the concepts and available methods and illustrates them Only single resource book of information not only on various wildlife modeling techniques but also with practical guidance on the demonstrated utility of each based on real world conditions Provides concepts methods and applications for wildlife ecologists and others within a GIS context Written by a team of subject area experts An Inconstant Landscape Thomas G. Garrison, Stephen Houston,2019-01-15 Presenting the results of six years of archaeological survey and excavation in and around the Maya kingdom of El Zotz An Inconstant Landscape paints a complex picture of a dynamic landscape over the course of almost 2 000 years of occupation El Zotz was a dynastic seat of the Classic period in Guatemala Located between the renowned sites of Tikal and El Per Waka it existed as a small kingdom with powerful neighbors and serves today as a test case of political debility and strength during the height of dynastic struggles among the Classic Maya In this volume contributors address the challenges faced by smaller polities on the peripheries of powerful kingdoms and ask how subordination was experienced and independent policy asserted Leading experts provide cutting edge analysis in varied topics and detailed discussion of the development of this major site and the region more broadly The first half of the volume contains a historical narrative of the cultural sequence of El Zotz tracing the changes in occupation and landscape use across time the second half provides deep technical analyses of material evidence including soils ceramics stone tools and bone The ever changing inconstant landscapes of peripheral kingdoms like El Zotz reveal much about their more dominant and better known neighbors An Inconstant Landscape offers a comprehensive multidisciplinary view of this important but under studied site an essential context for the study of the Classic Maya in Guatemala and a premier reference on the subject of peripheral kingdoms at the height of Maya civilization Contributors Timothy Beach Nicholas Carter Ewa Czapiewska Halliday Alyce de Carteret William Delgado Colin Doyle James Doyle Laura Gomez Jose Luis Garrido Lopez Yeny Myshell Gutierrez Castillo Zachary Hruby Melanie Kingsley Sheryl Luzzadder Beach Cassandra Mesick Braun Sarah Newman Rony Piedrasanta Edwin Román and Andrew K Scherer General Technical Report PSW. ,1978

Designing Low Carbon Societies in Landscapes Nobukazu Nakagoshi, Jhonamie A. Mabuhay, 2014-05-09 This book focuses on three major means of achieving a low carbon society conservation of the ecosystem complex changes of arrangement of landscapes and creation of biodiversity There are specific countermeasures to be taken for carbon absorption in the three types of landscapes urban cultural and natural because their carbon balances differ Urban landscapes are promising sites because they have the potential for greening and the creation of biodiversity Cultural landscapes in the tropics had not been actively researched until recently but this book now presents a collection of several cases focused on those areas Natural landscapes had existed in abundance in developing countries later nature protection areas were designated to coexist with development Now however developmental pressure has penetrated into those nature protection areas and landscape ecological projects are urgently required to preserve them As a result of global warming abnormal weather phenomena including super typhoons have occurred frequently in recent years The major underlying cause is the higher concentration of greenhouse gases released by human activities As well major natural absorbers of CO₂ such as forests wetlands and coral reefs are shrinking and the human impact is causing the ecological balance to deteriorate Controlling CO₂ emissions and expanding the CO₂ absorbers are keys to reducing total CO₂ Low carbon societies can be established by maintaining the original CO₂ balance through integration of multiple tools with contributions from diverse fields such as physics and chemistry physiology and humanities and education On the basis of an international consensus the environment must be protected no matter what sacrifices are required As this book demonstrates achieving a low carbon society is a top priority and landscape conservation is the first step in ecological research toward that goal Landscape Boundaries Andrew J. Hansen, Francesco DiCasteri, 2012-12-06 The emergence of landscape ecology during the 1980s represents an important maturation of ecological theory Once enamored with the conceptual beauty of well balanced homogeneous ecosystems ecologists now assert that much of the essence of ecological systems lies in their lumpiness Patches with differing properties and behaviors lie strewn across the landscape products of the complex interactions of climate disturbance and biotic processes It is the collective behavior of this patchwork of ecosystems that drives pattern and process of the landscape is not an end point This realization of the importance of patch dynamics in itself however Rather it is a passage to a new conceptual framework the internal workings of which remain obscure The next tier of questions includes What are the fundamental pieces that compose a landscape How are these pieces bounded To what extent do these boundaries influence communication and interaction among patches of the landscape Will consideration of the interactions among landscape elements help us to understand the workings of landscapes At the core of these questions lies the notion of the ecotone a term with a lineage that even predates ecosystem Late in the nineteenth century F E Clements realized that the transition zones between plant communities had properties distinct from either of the adjacent communities Not until the emergence of patch dynamics theory however has central significance of the ecotone concept become apparent

Forested Landscapes in Perspective National Research Council, Board on Agriculture, Committee on Prospects and Opportunities for Sustainable Management of America's Nonfederal Forests, 1998-05-01 The federal role in the management of nonfederal U S forests was once relatively simple to assist in the prevention and control of wildfires The administrative structure to carry out this role was similarly uncomplicated with most programs under the aegis of the U S Department of Agriculture In recent years however both the management and administrative landscapes have changed dramatically Responsibility for the federal role in nonfederal forests has been expanded to include a number of cabinet departments and independent agencies which must address critical issues such as reforestation wetlands disruption and biodiversity protection With two thirds of all U S forests on nonfederal lands these issues are becoming increasingly more important Now a first of its kind examination of the federal role in nonfederal forest management Forested Landscapes in Perspective presents a comprehensive look at the current landscape and recommends improvements that best serve public and private interests This timely volume includes an insightful description of the current situation and recent trends followed by a thorough examination of major policy and program issues affecting nonfederal forests Among these are emerging environmental concerns such as forest fragmentation and large scale climate change as well as issues of economic importance such as the availability of timber supplies The Archaeology of Human-Environmental Dynamics on the North American Atlantic Coast Leslie Reeder-Myers, John A. Turck, Torben C. Rick, 2019-11-04 Using archaeology as a tool for understanding long term ecological and climatic change this volume synthesizes current knowledge about the ways

Native Americans interacted with their environments along the Atlantic Coast of North America over the past 10 000 years. Leading scholars discuss how the region's indigenous peoples grappled with significant changes to shorelines and estuaries from sea level rise to shifting plant and animal distributions to European settlement and urbanization. Together they provide a valuable perspective spanning millennia on the diverse marine and nearshore ecosystems of the entire Eastern Seaboard: the icy waters of Newfoundland and the Gulf of Maine; the Middle Atlantic regions of the New York Bight and the Chesapeake Bay; and the warm shallows of the St. Johns River and the Florida Keys. This broad comparative outlook brings together populations and areas previously studied in isolation. Today the Atlantic Coast is home to tens of millions of people who inhabit ecosystems that are in dramatic decline. The research in this volume not only illuminates the past but also provides important tools for managing coastal environments into an uncertain future. A volume in the series Society and Ecology in Island and Coastal Archaeology edited by Victor D. Thompson.

Ecosystem Restoration, 2005 Report of Investigations Maryland Geological Survey, 1965 Knitting Food: Food and Eco-textiles Manuel Gausa, Giorgia Tucci, 2024-10-22. This book focuses on the emerging field of food waste based eco-textiles. Eco-textiles, eco-leathers and bio-skins are now an important category of biomaterials with immediate applications in sustainable industrial production and the circular economy. In this sense the book brings together new collaborative and interdisciplinary projects and artistic crossovers specialised in eco-textile research, re-design and functional use of organic and food waste in a vision that starts from the product dimension and reaches the urban scale.

Reinventing Banking and Finance Helene Panzarino, Alessandro Hatami, 2020-11-03. Named as the best overall book on banking of 2022 by Investopedia. The finance industry is currently going through a digital revolution with new and developing technology transforming the world of banking and financial services beyond recognition. Banks and financial institutions worldwide recognize the pressing need to innovate to avoid disruption or displacement by highly agile and often smaller fintech companies. Reinventing Banking and Finance is an essential guide for finance professionals to current trends in fintech innovation frameworks, the challenges of outsourcing or embedding innovation and how to effectively collaborate with other organizations. Beginning with the history and background of how banking got to the era of fintech, the book provides a thorough overview of the global fintech ecosystem and the drivers behind innovation in technologies, business models and distribution channels. Examples of key institutions and interviews with innovators and experts shine a light on key financial innovation hubs in UK, US, China, Israel and more, and offer advice for institutions looking to choose the right market for their needs. Covering genuine innovations in AI, machine learning, blockchain and digital identity, Reinventing Banking and Finance offers expert insight into navigating the complex and multi-layered finance industry.
