Competence Assessment in Education Detlev Leutner, Jens Fleischer, Juliane Grünkorn, Eckhard Klieme, 2017-03-27 This book addresses challenges in the theoretically and empirically adequate assessment of competencies in educational settings. It presents the scientific projects of the priority program Competence Models for Assessing Individual Learning Outcomes and Evaluating Educational Processes which focused on competence assessment across disciplines in Germany. The six year program coordinated 30 research projects involving experts from the fields of psychology, educational science and subject specific didactics. The main reference point for all projects is the concept of competencies which are defined as context specific cognitive dispositions that are acquired and needed to successfully cope with certain situations or tasks in specific domains. Koeppen et al 2008 p 62. The projects investigate different aspects of competence assessment. The primary focus lies on the development of cognitive models of competencies complemented by the construction of psychometric models based on these theoretical models. In turn the psychometric models constitute the basis for the construction of instruments for effectively measuring competencies. The assessment of competencies plays a key role in optimizing educational processes and improving the effectiveness of educational systems. This book contributes to this challenging endeavor by meeting the need for more integrative interdisciplinary research on the structure levels and development of competencies.

Learning to Love Assessment Sherah Betts Carr, Anaya L. Bryson, 2017-07-07 Learning to Love Assessment: Unraveling Complexities and Providing Solutions provides educators and stakeholders with two very critical components of the current assessment dialogue. One is to understand the historical and legislative components and perceptions that have created the current climate of school accountability measures. The second is to deconstruct these complexities and offer concrete solutions for making classroom assessment an enjoyable, productive and student owned endeavor. The bulk of this book focuses on solutions. It offers concrete techniques for educators at all levels to cultivate and implement effective classroom assessment strategies. Over 50 unique strategies for formative student peer and self assessment data dialogues, technological tools and PBL3 problem project and performance based assessments are detailed. A special feature of the book includes access to a companion web site that contains links and handouts that coordinate with the various classroom assessment strategies. In addition, each chapter contains reflective pre and post reading questions so the book can be effectively used to supplement professional learning or educational courses.

A. (Ken) Clements, Nerida F. Ellerton, 2017-10-28 In this well illustrated book the authors Sinan Kanbir Ken Clements and Nerida Ellerton tackle a persistent and universal problem in school mathematics why do so many middle school and secondary school students find it difficult to learn algebra well What makes the book important are the unique features which comprise the design research approach that the authors adopted in seeking a solution to the problem The first unique feature is that the authors offer an overview of the history of school algebra Despite the fact that algebra has been an important component of secondary school mathematics for more than three centuries there has never been a comprehensive historical analysis of factors influencing the teaching and learning of that component The authors identify through historical analysis six purposes of school algebra a algebra as a body of knowledge essential to higher mathematical and scientific studies b algebra as generalized arithmetic c algebra as a prerequisite for entry to higher studies d algebra as offering a language and set of procedures for modeling real life problems e algebra as an aid to describing structural properties in elementary mathematics and f algebra as a study of variables They also raise the question whether school algebra represents a unidimensional trait Kanbir Clements and Ellerton offer an unusual hybrid theoretical framework for their intervention study by which seventh grade students significantly improved their elementary algebra knowledge and skills Their theoretical frame combined Charles Sanders Peirce's triadic signifier interpretant signified theory which is in the realm of semiotics with Johann Friedrich Herbart's theory of apperception and Ken Clements and Gina Del Campo's theory relating to the need to expand modes of communications in mathematics classrooms so that students engage in receptive and expressive modes Practicing classroom teachers formed part of the research team This book appears in Springer's series on the History of Mathematics Education Not only does it include an important analysis of the history of school algebra but it also adopts a theoretical frame which relies more on theories from the past than on contemporary theories in the field of mathematics education The results of the well designed classroom intervention are sufficiently impressive that the study might have created and illuminated a pathway for future researchers to take

Research for Educational Change Jill

Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research

Frost,2020-04-07 Nova Scotia's public schools and their students have faced dramatic conflict and drastic change over the past 25 years While critics charge that schools are failing kids teachers have been under attack from think tanks and politicians Parents and citizens have seen power centralized after democratically elected school boards were abolished Grant Frost offers an insider's account of these tumultuous years and offers an explanation for the turmoil Behind the conflict he discovers right wing think tanks that relentlessly seek to discredit public education and teachers while pushing for changes that would benefit corporations who want willing workers The think tanks are also promoters of the charter school movement that continues to gain ground in the US and that is promoted as a better option than public schools Whether it's Nova Scotia's own right wing think tank or local journalists who readily adopt the cry that our schools are failing Grant Frost traces the path that he finds has threatened the quality of schooling in Nova Scotia He sets out the steps for parents teachers and other citizens to ensure that public education is championed and protected in Nova Scotia FCC Record United States. Contemporary Research and Perspectives on Early Childhood Mathematics Education Iliada Elia,Joanne Mulligan,Ann Anderson,Anna Baccaglini-Frank,Christiane Benz,2018-02-21 This book brings together a collection of research based papers on current issues in early childhood mathematics education that were presented in the Topic Study Group 1 TSG 1 at the 13th International Congress on Mathematical Education ICME 13 held at the University of Hamburg in 2016 It will help readers understand a range of key issues that early childhood mathematics educators encounter today Research on early childhood mathematics education has grown in recent years due in part to the well documented positive relation between children's early mathematical knowledge and their later mathematics learning and to the considerable emphasis many countries are now placing on preschool education. The book addresses a number of central questions including: What is mathematical structural development and how can we promote it in early childhood? How can multimodality and embodiment contribute to early mathematics learning and to acquiring a better understanding of young children's mathematical development? How can children's informal mathematics-related experiences affect instruction and children's learning in different mathematics content areas? What is the role of tools including technology and picture books in supporting early mathematics learning? What are the challenges in early childhood mathematics education for teachers' education and professional development?

Discrimination based on Colour, Ethnic Origin, Language, Religion and Belief in Turkey's Education System Nurcan Kaya, 2015-10-27. The Turkish government is urged to make a fundamental shift in its approach to education by Minority Rights Group International (MRG) in a new report. A long-standing focus on state building has been supplemented by increasing emphasis on religious teaching. Both feature strongly in the education system in Turkey, making schools a focus of discrimination. The report, Discrimination based on Colour, Ethnic Origin, Language, Religion and Belief in Turkey's Education System, reveals evidence of discrimination of minority groups and suggests comprehensive reforms to effectively ensure equality. The national education system, which for decades aimed to create young Turkish nationalists, has in recent years become a vehicle for raising young religious Turkish nationalists, says Nurcan Kaya, Turkey Coordinator of Minority Rights Group International. Religious education is compulsory from grade four in primary schools. While some information on world religions has been introduced, the emphasis remains on teaching Sunni Muslim religious practices. Children of Jewish and Christian families may apply to opt out, but the process can be cumbersome and in many schools alternatives are not provided for them. Non-Muslim students who have opted out can still find themselves having to remain in the religious instruction class or alternatively having to wander in the school corridor, making them vulnerable to taunts from pupils and even teachers. The opt-out possibility is still not available to children of other minorities. Another issue is mother tongue education. In 2012, a new elective on the living languages and dialects in Turkey was introduced, but due to various limitations, minorities remain marginalised. Others in the education system. Subsequent to the 2012 reform, the report monitors discrimination in the formal education system in the period of the academic year of 2014-2015. The findings are based on the field work of the Monitoring Discrimination in Education Network, an alliance of 16 organizations working in Turkey. The report compiles numerous cases of discrimination based on language, religion, ethnicity, skin colour and the level of income. In order to bring about a fundamental solution to these problems in the education system, the government must prioritise developing an approach that sees all groups as equal and that responds to demands for rights based on such an understanding of equality, says Kaya. The report highlights that Turkey has no anti-discrimination law or an equality commission to which victims of discrimination can apply. The existing legislation contains no effective and accessible means of judicial remedies or compensation Therefore many discriminatory practices are not reported to school administrations The entire education system is based on Turkishness Non Turkish groups are either not referred to or referred in a negative way says Kaya Education system has played a significant role in deepening conflict in society The positive representation of other groups in the education system would contribute to social peace and harmony In order to resolve the many problems in the education system that the current approach causes the overall aim of government education policy should be cleared of ideological references and the protection of children s best interests and the right to education in line with international standards should be considered its fundamental goal says the report
