Which was more important in causing the weakness of the League: its structure or the Great Depression? Explain your answer. (10 marks)

TASK: highlight the model answer identifying the following things in different colours:

- Point
- Evidence
- Explanation / Evaluation
- Link back to the Q

The League of Nations was an international peace organisation set up after 1918, with the key aims of settling disputes peacefully, disarmament and improving the lives of people. This ambitious organisation faced many structural problems, which was often contentious and ineffective. However, the external context in the 1930s played a major role in weakening the League. The advent of the Great Depression in the

1. Why was Wilson disappointed with the Treaty of Versailles? (6 marks)

Reason why Wilson was disappointed with the Treaty of Versailles was because he wanted all countries to have self-determination. The reasons for this were twofold. The First World War was, in large part, caused by the hostility derived from growing nationalism in Europe, which underpinned those countries' expansionist aims as they sought to grow their empires larger and faster than their rivals. Therefore, Wilson wanted to eliminate this imperialist culture would safeguard against a second major war. In addition to this, as an emerging superpower, America did not want its power or influence to be undermined by large European powers, whose empires extended across the globe. Wilson's vision of self-determination which arose from the Treaty of Versailles was a

2. Why was Haile Selassie unhappy with the way the League dealt with the Italian invasion of Ethiopia?

Haile Selassie was unhappy with how the League dealt with the Italian invasion of Ethiopia because, after having appealed to the League for help, they were left unsupported. The League employed some economic sanctions such as the banning of loans to Italy, as well as the arms, tin and metals, they were reluctant to ban the sale of oil. This was because the League would affect their economy too adversely. In Britain, 30,000 coal miners were already out of work, and America would not support such a sanction. Consequently, the League was unable to put their own economic interests above the very ethics and principle of self-determination.

3. Why did Chamberlain announce that he had secured 'peace in our time' following the Munich agreement? (8 marks)

Chamberlain believed he had secured peace after the Munich agreement because in the meeting prior to the agreement Hitler had assured him that all he wanted was the Sudetenland and the 3 million German speakers who lived there. The Munich Agreement gave Hitler exactly these things, and as a result Chamberlain believed Hitler would be content and compliant moving forwards. Hitler had also been the one to call the meeting which led to the Munich agreement. Therefore, Chamberlain felt more confident that Hitler was interested in diplomacy and wanted to find a peaceful solution as if he wasn't, it seemed unlikely he would have signed a peace declaration with Chamberlain.

The military terms were the main cause of German bitterness towards the Treaty of Versailles. How far do you agree with this statement? (20 marks)

The Treaty of Versailles was signed in 1919 to officially end WWI. The terms of the treaty were harsh, and many historians agree that the terms were so damaging to Germany that they contributed to the outbreak of WWII. The military terms did indeed create a great deal of bitterness, but other terms such as the War Guilt Clause, reparations, and the

Radicalization in Pakistan Muhammad Shoaib Pervez,2020-11-29 This book offers a critical analysis of radicalization in Pakistan by deconstructing the global and the official state narratives designed to restrain Pakistani radicalization Chapters are centered around three distinct themes educational norms religious practices and geo political aspects of radicalization to examine the prevalent state and global practices which propagate Pakistani radicalization discourse. The book argues that there is both a global agenda which presents Pakistan as the epicenter and sponsor of terrorism and a domestic or official agenda that portrays Pakistan as the state which sacrificed and suffered the most in the recent War on Terror which allow the country to gain sympathy as a victim. Delineating both conflicting agendas through a critical analysis of global and state practices in order to understand the myths and narratives of radicalization in Pakistan constructed by powerful elites, the book enables readers to gain a better understanding of this phenomenon. A multidisciplinary critical approach to comprehending radicalization in Pakistan with innovative prescriptions for counter radicalization policy, this book will be of interest to researchers working in the fields of International Relations, Security Studies, Asian Politics, as well as Religious Studies and Education, in particular in the context of South Asia.
