South Asia Papers Stephen P. Cohen, 2016-04-12 This curated collection examines Stephen Philip Cohen's impressive body of work. Stephen Philip Cohen, the Brookings scholar who virtually created the field of South Asian security studies, has curated a unique collection of the most important articles, chapters, and speeches from his fifty-year career. Cohen, often described as the dean of U.S. South Asian studies, is a dominant figure in the fields of military history, military sociology, and South Asia's strategic emergence. Cohen introduces this work with a critical look at his past writing where he was right where he was wrong. This exceptional collection includes materials that have never appeared in book form, including Cohen's original essays on the region's military history, the transition from British rule to independence, the role of the armed forces in India and Pakistan, the pathologies of India-Pakistan relations, South Asia's growing nuclear arsenal, and America's fitful and forgetful regional policy.

Tribal Land Alienation and Political Movements Ramdas Rupavath, 2009-05-27 The study focuses upon the process of land alienation going on since the colonial period, the skewed patterns of socio-economic development in the tribal area after independence, and the resulting political movements in Andhra Pradesh, South India. The existing literature shows that majority of the studies on tribes in Andhra Pradesh, South India, have focused upon the sociological or anthropological aspects of tribal life, their exploitation, or upon the leadership, strategy, and tactics of the Naxalite movements, while ignoring the basic underlying causes. The processes of land alienation due to the entry of non-tribals, commoditization of land, introduction of cash crops, etc., which began under the feudal and oppressive Nizam State in Andhra Pradesh, South India. Further, our book tries to look at the policies of the colonial state that has been examined in detail and provide a background to the post-colonial situation. It also shows that after independence, the land transfer regulation act and the various developmental programmes introduced into the tribal area have not yielded significant results. A detailed survey reveals that landlessness, unemployment, poverty, and increasing social alienation from hostility towards non-tribals is increasing in these regions. It is these factors that underlie the often violent political movement in the pre and post independence movement which have been described in detail in our book. The study concludes that unless tribal lands and economy are protected and a pattern of development better suited to their way of life is introduced, tribal oppression and movements keep on arising further in any backward regions. Our book hopes to fill this gap by establishing inter-linkages in socio-economic conditions of the tribal population of Andhra Pradesh, South India. Our book is interdisciplinary in nature and shall be useful to scholars and students of Political Economy, Political Science, Rural Development, Public Administration, Anthropology, Sociology, Gender Studies, and Development. It is widely applicable to all sections of the marginalized, socially, economically, and culturally.
