Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". Our bodies learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent urination, increased hunger, mood swings, and changes in weight. Symptoms can also include slow wound healing, numbness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released into the bloodstream by endocrine glands. They travel through the bloodstream and bind to target cells, which then respond to the signal. Hormones can affect many different parts of the body. They can affect the way cells grow, divide, and function. They can also affect the way cells use energy. Hormones can also affect the way cells communicate with each other.

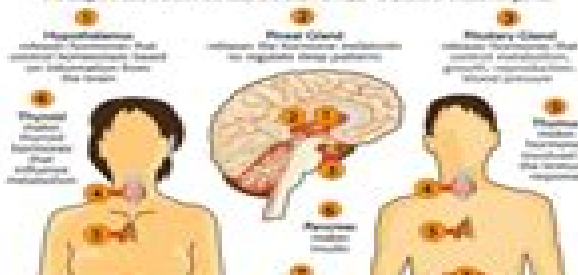

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when we are really frightened. The body's fight-or-flight response is the body's way of reacting to a dangerous situation. When we are scared, our body releases hormones that make us feel alert and ready to act. These hormones also make our heart beat faster and our breathing deeper. This helps us to run away from danger or fight back. The fight-or-flight response is a natural reaction that helps us to survive. It is a reaction that is triggered by the release of hormones from the adrenal glands. The adrenal glands are located on top of the kidneys. They release hormones that help us to react to stress. Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are many different types of glands in the body. Some glands release hormones, while others release enzymes or other substances. Glands are important for many different functions in the body. They help to regulate our metabolism, our growth, and our development. They also help to protect us from disease. There are many different types of glands in the body. Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine systems are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help to keep hormone levels in the body within a narrow range. When hormone levels are too high or too low, the body releases hormones to bring them back to normal. This is a feedback loop. Feedback loops are important for many different functions in the body. They help to regulate our metabolism, our growth, and our development. They also help to protect us from disease. Feedback loops are important for many different functions in the body.
