Spectrum PRASANTA GOGOI, DR. MINAKSHI DUARAH, PORAG SHARMA, 2024-03-09 The book Spectrum is a concatenation of a rainbow of ideas focusing on the litany of hindrances that have hobbled the upward march of society. The research articles to be published in Spectrum can be pigeonholed into different segments considering their political, social, and economic implications. The contributors in this research book have hit upon the prospects and avenues of economic growth that might take society to an unhindered development trajectory. The research articles have thrown sufficient light on the knock-on effects of imbalanced growth witnessed in different socio-political firmament and thus the articles are a sincere attempt at building an egalitarian world based on the principles of equality and fraternity. Economic prosperity and imbalanced growth: two contradictory ideas have been adequately highlighted, bringing to the surface the reality as to how important balanced development is in every field to fructify the dream of a prosperous society. If we think of building a classless society, then the first requirement would be to do away with the prevailing social chasm created by the imbalanced economic growth and also by social injustice. And for that matter, Gandhi's principles can serve as a beacon of hope for a society steeped in parochial viewpoints. Spectrum is throwing light on the practical values of Gandhi's doctrines to usher in an ideal society. It is further noted that NEP 20 has created much stir in the field of education, showing itself as a trailblazing force or initiative, and one of the research articles in Spectrum is trying to pour out colours to every socio-economic aspect, expecting the society to be able to keep pace with the challenges of fluctuating times.
