

Safe Manual Handling

Introduction

LEGISLATION

More than a 1/3 of injuries reported to the Health and Safety Executive are from lifting, lowering, pushing, pulling, carrying, or moving. These injuries are costly to the employer and the employee. The Manual Handling Operations Regulations 1992 (amended 2002) require any employer whose work involves lifting, lowering, or moving a load to take steps to reduce the number of accidents and injuries from these activities.

TYPES OF INJURY

The back is a source of trouble with a lot depending on its condition. There are 3 types of injuries which can occur to the spine. These are:

1. Strain, such as sprains and tears of the ligaments and muscles, which support the spine. This is a common condition in most jobs where physical work is done.
2. Hernia, such as prolapsed intervertebral discs, which can cause severe pain and disability.
3. Spinal cord and nerve damage, which can cause permanent disability.

The types of injury that occur are:

1. Strain, such as sprains and tears of the ligaments and muscles, which support the spine. This is a common condition in most jobs where physical work is done.
2. Hernia, such as prolapsed intervertebral discs, which can cause severe pain and disability.
3. Spinal cord and nerve damage, which can cause permanent disability.

Any person carrying out manual handling should be aware of the risks to their health and safety.
