Margaret R. Meyer, Cynthia W. Langrall, 2008-12-01 Associate Editors Fran Arbaugh University of Missouri
Columbia David C Webb University of Colorado at Boulder and Murrell Brewer Hoover WVSTEM Center Marshall University
The purpose of this book is to document the work of the Show Me Project 1997 2007 and to highlight lessons learned about curriculum implementation Although the Show Me Project was charged with promoting the dissemination and implementation of four distinct comprehensive curriculum programs Connected Mathematics Mathematics in Context MathScape and MathThematics most of the lessons learned from this work are not curriculum specific Rather they cut across the four programs and share commonalities with standards based curriculum reform at any level We believe that documenting these lessons learned will be one of the legacies of the Show Me Project We anticipate that the comprehensive nature of this work will attract readers from multiple audiences that include state and district mathematics supervisors middle grades mathematics teachers and administrators involved in curriculum reform as well as mathematics teacher educators Those about to embark on the review of curriculum materials will appreciate reading about the processes employed by other districts Readers with interests in a particular curriculum program will be able to trace the curriculum specific chapters to gain insights into how the design of the curricula relate to professional development adoption and implementation issues and teachers personal experience using the curriculum materials Individuals who provide professional development at the middle grades level will find chapters that they can use for both general and focused discussions Teachers at all stages of implementation will recognize their own experiences in reading and reflecting on the stories of teacher change Mathematics educators will find ideas on how these curricula can be used in the preparation of preservice middle grades teachers Improving Instruction in Geometry and Measurement Margaret Schwan Smith, Edward A. Silver, Mary Kay Stein, 2005-01-01 Helping students develop an understanding of important mathematical ideas is a persistent challenge for teachers In this book one of a three volume set well known mathematics educators Margaret Smith Edward A. Silver and Mary Kay Stein provide teachers of mathematics the support they need to improve their instruction They focus on ways to engage upper elementary middle school and high school students in thinking reasoning and problem solving to build their mathematics understanding and proficiency The content focus of Volume One is rational numbers and proportionality Using materials that were developed under the NSF funded COMET Cases of Mathematics to Enhance Teaching program each volume in the set features cases from urban middle school classrooms with ethnically racially and linguistically diverse student populations Each case illustrates an instructional episode in the classroom of a teacher who is implementing standards based instruction the teachers perspective including their thoughts and actions as they interact with students and with key aspects of mathematical content cognitively challenging mathematics activities that are built around samples of authentic classroom practice and facilitation chapters to help professional developers teach the cases including specific guidelines for facilitating discussions and suggestions for connecting the ideas presented in the cases to a teacher's own practice. As a complete set, this resource provides a basis on which to build a comprehensive professional development program to improve mathematics instruction and student learning.

MathScape: Seeing and Thinking Mathematically, Course 3, Looking Behind the Numbers, Student Guide McGraw Hill, 2004-03-11

Looking Behind the Numbers Student Guide Connecting Mathematics and Mathematics Education Erich Christian Wittmann, 2020-12-09

This open access book features a selection of articles written by Erich Ch Wittmann between 1984 to 2019 which shows how the design science conception has been continuously developed over a number of decades. The articles not only describe this conception in general terms but also demonstrate various substantial learning environments that serve as typical examples. In terms of teacher education, the book provides clear information on how to combine well understood mathematics and methods courses to benefit of teachers. The role of mathematics in mathematics education is often explicitly and implicitly reduced to the delivery of subject matter that then has to be selected and made palpable for students using methods imported from psychology, sociology, educational research and related disciplines. While these fields have made significant contributions to mathematics education in recent decades, it cannot be ignored that mathematics itself, if well understood, provides essential knowledge for teaching mathematics beyond the pure delivery of subject matter. For this purpose, mathematics has to be conceived of as an organism that is deeply rooted in elementary operations of the human mind which can be seamlessly developed to higher and higher levels so that the full richness of problems of various degrees of difficulty and different means of representation, problem solving strategies and forms of proof can be used in ways that are appropriate for the respective level. This view of mathematics is essential for designing learning environments and curricula for conducting empirical studies on truly mathematical processes and also for implementing the findings of mathematics education in teacher education where it is crucial to take systemic constraints into account.

Improving Instruction in Rational Numbers and Proportionality Margaret Schwan Smith, Edward A. Silver, Mary Kay Stein, 2005-01-01

Helping students develop an understanding of important mathematical ideas is a persistent challenge for teachers. In this book, one of a three volume set, well known mathematics educators Margaret Smith, Edward A. Silver and Mary Kay Stein provide teachers of mathematics the support they need to improve their instruction. They focus on ways to engage upper elementary, middle school and high school students in thinking, reasoning and problem solving to build their mathematics understanding and proficiency. The content focus of Volume One is rational numbers and proportionality. Using materials that were developed under the NSF funded COMET Cases of Mathematics to Enhance Teaching program, each volume in the set features cases from urban middle school classrooms with ethnically, racially and linguistically diverse student populations. Each case illustrates an instructional episode in the classroom of a teacher who is implementing standards based instruction the teachers perspective including their thoughts and actions as they interact with students and with key aspects of mathematical content cognitively challenging mathematics activities that are built around samples of authentic classroom practice and facilitation chapters to help professional developers teach the cases including specific guidelines for facilitating discussions and suggestions for connecting the ideas presented in the cases to a teacher s own practice As a complete set this resource provides a basis on which to build a comprehensive professional development program to improve mathematics instruction and student learning Navigating MathLand Linda Kasal Fusco,2017-06-21 Navigating MathLand uses a unique lens to focus on how students prefer to learn mathematics The intent of this book is to provide a guide for parents to help them navigate the thirteen years of their children s math education K 12 The book will provide parents with the knowledge and skills they will need to proactively advocate for their children s preparation for the 21st century workforce
