Going to University Case, Jennifer, Marshall, Delia, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities to shape the modern world Sanghera visits Barbados where he uncovers how Caribbean nations are still struggling to emerge from the disadvantages sown by transatlantic slavery He examines how large charities like Save the Children and the World Bank still see the world through the imperial eyes of their colonial founders and how the political instability of nations such as Nigeria for instance can be traced back to tensions seeded in their colonial foundations And from the British Empire's role in the transportation of 12.5 million Africans during the Atlantic slave trade to the 35 million Indians who died due to famine caused by British policy the British Empire as Sanghera reveals was responsible for some of the largest demographic changes in human history Economic legal and political systems across the world continue to function along the lines originally drawn by the British Empire and cultural sexual psychological linguistic demographic and educational norms originally established by imperial Britons continue to shape our lives British Empire may have peaked a century ago and it may have been mostly dismantled by 1997 but in this major new work Sathnam Sanghera ultimately shows how the largest empire in world history still exerts influence over planet Earth in all sorts of silent and unsilent ways Quilt Arts of South Africa Marsha MacDowell, 2025-05-27 In the southernmost region of the African continent women have been piecing together materials textile construction techniques commonly used in quilting to create bed coverings throughout the history of the San and Khoi peoples From the late seventeenth century through the early nineteenth century an influx of Dutch French Indian and British military personnel traders miners and missionaries came to South Africa bringing with them their own cultural traditions including making and using quilts Today the making of quilts in South Africa is flourishing Quilt Arts of South Africa stitches together the history production and significance of quilt making from its earliest appearance in the continent's southernmost region to the twenty-first century With input from curators linguists art historians activist artists and folklorists this book presents disparate yet connected inquiries into a wide-ranging history of the quilt These perspectives connect a rich expressive art to place showing how the quilting traditions in South Africa together reflect a unique cultural history and natural landscape Itself pieced together from diverse voices Quilt Arts of South Africa offers glimpses into the histories and meanings of quilting in South Africa Learning, Design, and Technology J. New African Intellectuals and New African Political Thought in the Twentieth Century

Mbuku Herbert Mnguni, 2015 This book is purposely and deliberately entitled New African Intellectuals and New African Political Thought in the Twentieth Century It encapsulates the recent debate about the political and cultural role played by the New African intellectuals in developing modern African political thought The authors argue that the New African Intellectuals was a culturally and politically dominant movement of the twentieth century despite the fact that it was suppressed and oppressed by white colonialism and racism It was a political and cultural expression of the oppressed and disposed people During its cultural and political splay the New African Intellectuals was preoccupied with three inseparable historical issues forming the concept of the New African constructing the foundations of African modernity and formulating the principles of African Nationalism Offering fresh insights that are both empirically and theoretically informed this book illuminates the processes and consequences of the New African scholars and writers The political contribution made by the New African intellectuals is traced from its origins in literature music and language The discussion concludes with an exploration of the dilemma faced by African languages as they are dominated by European languages The authors argue that this dominance has resulted to the petrification and mummification of African languages because outstanding even great African writers are not using them in relation to modern technological and linguistic experience The authors believe that this broad ranging book will be of interest to all those studying African politics and culture and who are concerned with understanding modern African societies in the light of post colonialism

The PhD Experience in African Higher

Education John Mashayamombe, Ruth Murambadoro, uMbuso weNkosi, 2022-11-08 The PhD Experience in African Higher Education edited by Ruth Murambadoro John Mashayamombe and uMbuso weNkosi addresses the growing call to invest in the humanities and social sciences by exploring the nature of doctoral training in select institutions of higher learning in South Africa In the past two decades South Africa has become a key player in the global higher education landscape and dubbed the hub for doctoral training in Africa because of its developed educational infrastructure and highly ranked universities Given South Africa s positioning the contributors in this volume argue that the government donors universities and faculty have a socio legal duty to ensure that doctoral programs in the humanities and social sciences are not offered to amass numbers of African graduates but are grounded on equipping students with both hard and soft skills necessary to succeed This is achieved by offering skills training and research apprenticeships fostered in communities of practice because as the contributors show the humanities and social sciences are the backbone of society Furthermore they argue that treating doctoral candidates as equal partners is emancipatory because intellectual projects are best nurtured through collaborative learning

A Social History of the University Presses in Apartheid South Africa Elizabeth Le Roux, 2015-10-14

In A History of the University Presses in Apartheid South Africa Elizabeth le Roux examines scholarly publishing history academic freedom and knowledge production during the apartheid era Using archival materials comprehensive bibliographies and political sociology theory this work analyses the origins publishing lists and philosophies of the university presses The university presses are often associated with anti apartheid publishing and the promotion of academic freedom but this work reveals both greater complicity and complexity Elizabeth le Roux demonstrates that the university presses cannot be considered oppositional because they did not resist censorship and because they operated within the constraints of the higher education system but their publishing strategies became more liberal over time

Africa and the Africans in the Nineteenth Century: A Turbulent History Catherine Coquery-Vidrovitch, Mary Baker, 2015-02-12

Most histories seek to understand modern Africa as a troubled outcome of nineteenth century European colonialism but that is only a small part of the story In this celebrated book beautifully translated from the French edition the history of Africa in the nineteenth century unfolds from the perspective of Africans themselves rather than the European powers It was above all a time of tremendous internal change on the African continent Great jihads of Muslim conquest and conversion swept over West Africa In the interior warlords competed to control the internal slave trade In the east the sultanate of Zanzibar extended its reach via coastal and interior trade routes In the north Egypt began to modernize while Algeria was colonized In the south a series of forced migrations accelerated spurred by the progression of white settlement Through much of the century African societies assimilated and adapted to the changes generated by these diverse forces In the end the West's technological advantage prevailed and most of Africa fell under European control and lost its independence Yet only by taking into account the rich complexity of this tumultuous past can we fully understand modern Africa from the colonial period to independence and the difficulties of today

Arming Black Consciousness Toivo Tukongeni Paul Wilson Asheeke, 2023-06-08

Since 1994 as the ruling party in South Africa the ANC have become synonymous with and indivisible from the fight against apartheid rule This has left little space for competing accounts visions and political projects to find their appropriate place in the historical narrative In this innovative book Toivo Asheeke moves beyond these well trodden histories to tell the previously neglected story of the Black Consciousness Movement BCM a militant revolutionary nationalist wing of the anti colonial struggle Using archival sources from four countries and interviews with former veterans of the movement Asheeke explores the BCM's engagement with guerrilla warfare community feminism and Black Internationalism Uncovering the personal and political histories of those who have previously received scant scholarly attention Asheeke both illuminates the history of Africa's decolonization struggle and that of the wider Cold War

Higher Education in the BRICS Countries Simon Schwartzman, Rómulo Pinheiro, Pundy Pillay, 2015-03-24

In spite of the increasing attention attributed to the rise in prominence of the BRICS Brazil Russia India China and South Africa countries few studies have looked at the ways in which broader social expectations with respect to the role of higher education across the BRICS have changed or not in recent years Our point of departure is that contrary to the conventional wisdom focusing on functionalistic perspectives higher education systems are not just designed by governments to fulfill certain functions but have a tendency for evolving in a rather unpredictable fashion as a result of the complex interplay between a number of internal and external factors In reality national higher education systems develop and change according to a complex process that encompasses the expectations of governmental agencies markets the aspirations of the population for the benefits of education the specific institutional traditions and cultures of higher education institutions and increasingly so the interests and strategies of the private firms entering and offering services in the higher education market This basically means that it is of outmost importance to move away from conceiving of universities or higher education as single monolithic actors or sector One way of doing this is by investigating a selected number of distinct but nonetheless interrelated factors or drivers which taken together help determine the nature and scope of the social compact between higher education its core actors and institutions and society at large government industry local communities professional associations

Whose History Counts June Bam, Lungisile Ntsebeza, Allan Zinn, 2018-11-29 Originally planned as a fact based book on the pre colonial history of the Eastern Cape in the true tradition of history this ground breaking book focuses on epistemological and foundational questions about the writing of history and whose history counts Whose History Counts challenges the very concept of pre colonial and explores methodologies on researching and writing history The reason for this dramatic change of focus is attributed in the introduction of the book to the student led rebellion that erupted following the RhodesMustFall campaign which started at the University of Cape Town on 9 March 2015 Key to the rebellion was the students opposition to what they dubbed colonial education and a clamour for among others a decolonised curriculum This book is a direct response to this clarion call

The Oxford Handbook of Language and Society Ofelia García, Nelson Flores (Linguist), Massimiliano Spotti, 2017 This book challenges basic concepts that have informed the study of sociolinguistics It proposes a critical poststructuralist perspective that examines the socio historical context that led to the emergence of dominant sociolinguistic concepts and develops new theoretical and methodological tools that challenge these dominant concepts
