

One morning, Rex and Tortoise watched the train come and go. "I think I'm as fast as those trains," Rex said. "Maybe faster."

Tortoise giggled. "You are fast, my friend, but you are not as fast as a train."

Rex did not laugh. "Well, I may not be as fast as a train, but I am certainly faster than you," he said.

Ross Wagner,2014-04-09 In this text critical literary and theological investigation of Paul s interpretation of Isaiah in Romans it is argued that Paul s citations and allusions evince sustained and careful attention to significant portions of Isaiah in concert with other scriptural voices Through a radical rereading of Isaiah Paul appropriates these prophetic oracles as prefigurations of his own mission to Gentiles while simultaneously appealing to Isaiah as a witness to God s continuing fidelity to Israel The book examines each of Paul s citations and allusions to Isaiah situating them both within the milieu of early Jewish interpretive practices and within the context of Paul s unfolding argument in Romans This volume contributes to the current debate about early Christian interpretation of scripture by tracing the complex and dynamic interrelationship in Paul s letter of Scripture theology and mission This publication has also been published in paperback please click here for details     Everybody Wins James Wallis,2023-03-14 The revolution in tabletop gaming revealed and reviewed in this entertaining and informative look at over 40 years of award winning games The annual Spiel des Jahres Game of the Year Awards are like the Oscars of the tabletop Acclaimed British author and games expert James Wallis investigates the winners and losers of each year s contest to track the incredible explosion in amazing new board games From modern classics like CATAN Ticket to Ride and Dixit to once lauded games that have now been forgotten not to mention several popular hits that somehow missed a nomination this is a comprehensive yet hugely readable study of the best board games ever made penned by one of the most knowledgeable commentators on the hobby     The Final Breath Leary W. investment policy so restrictive How come your hotels are world class but the roads leading to them are so potholed Why don't you lower your voice when you make fun of your politicians Why do you control the price of oil and cable TV Clearly there's a huge difference in how India and its arch rival China work on the ground China is spectacularly effective in building infrastructure and is now reinvesting almost half its GDP Meanwhile India is still a promising economy more than half its GDP is consumed by its billion plus people yet India has some unique advantages Half its population is under twenty five giving it a strong demographic edge 350 million Indians understand English making it the largest English speaking country in the world and it's the world's largest democracy In the race to superpower status who is more likely to win China's hare or India's tortoise Bahl argues that the winner might not be determined by who is investing more and growing faster today but by something more intangible who has superior innovative skills and more entrepreneurial savvy He notes that China and India were both quick to recover from the financial crisis but China's rebound was accompanied by huge debt and deflation with weak demand India's turnaround was sturdier with lower debt and modest inflation So India's GDP grew twice as fast as China's for a few quarters the first time that had happened in nearly three decades And in contrast to China's Yuan which is pummeled for being artificially undervalued India's rupee largely floats against world currencies In the end it might come down to one deciding factor can India fix its governance before China repairs its politics With insights into the two countries' histories politics economies and cultures this is a well written fully documented comprehensive account of the race to become the next global superpower For anyone looking to understand China India and the future of the world economy this is the book to read
