Harm Reduction is a philosophy of public health intended as a progressive alternative to the prohibition of certain potentially dangerous lifestyle choices. Recognising that certain people always have and always will engage in behaviours which carry risks, the aim of harm reduction is to mitigate the potential dangers and health risks associated with those behaviours. Harm Reduction in Substance Use and High Risk Behaviour offers a comprehensive exploration of the policy practice and evidence base of harm reduction. Starting with a history of harm reduction, the book addresses key ethical and legal issues central to the debates and developments in the field. It discusses the full range of psychoactive substances, behaviours and communities, with chapters on injecting drugs, stimulant use, tobacco, harm reduction, alcohol use and sex work. Written by an international team of contributors, this text provides an essential panorama of harm reduction in the 21st century for educators and researchers in addiction and public health, postgraduate students and policy makers. Policy Issues in Insurance, Risk Awareness, Capital Markets and Catastrophic Risks OECD, 2011-08-12. Includes reports on initiatives to promote natural hazard awareness and disaster risk reduction education, the role of financial markets in financial mitigation of large scale risks, mechanisms used to quantify catastrophe losses and hazard risk mapping efforts in Southeast Asian countries. Spatiality Vít Pászto, Carsten Jürgens, Polona Tominc, Jaroslav Burian, 2019-11-06. This open access book is based on Spatiality: Spatial Exploration of Economic Data, an interdisciplinary and international project in the frame of ERASMUS funded by the European Union. The project aims to exchange interdisciplinary knowledge in the fields of economics and geomatics. For the newly introduced courses, interdisciplinary learning materials have been developed by a team of lecturers from four different universities in three countries. In a first study block, students were taught methods from the two main research fields. Afterwards, the knowledge gained had to be applied in a project. For this international project, teams were formed consisting of one student from each university participating in the project The achieved results were presented in a summer school a few months later At this event more methodological knowledge was imparted to prepare students for a final simulation game about spatial and economic decision making In a broader sense the chapters will present the methodological background of the project give case studies and show how visualisation and the simulation game works

Preventing HIV in Developing Countries Laura Gibney,Ralph J. DiClemente,Sten H. Vermund,2006-04-11 Globally action to prevent HIV spread is inadequate Over 16 000 new infections occur every day Yet we are not helpless in the face of disaster as shown by the rich prevention experience analyzed in this valuable new compendium Best practice exists a set of tried and tested ways of slowing the spread of HIV of persuading and enabling people to protect themselves and others from the virus Individually features of best practice can be found almost everywhere The tragedy on a world scale is that prevention is spotty not comprehensive the measures are not being applied on anywhere near the scale needed or with the right focus or synergy The national response may concentrate solely on sex workers for example Elsewhere efforts may go into school education for the young but ignore the risks and vulnerability of men who have sex with men Action may be patchy geographically AIDS prevention may not benefit from adequate commitment from all parts and sectors of society compromising the sustainability of the response In some countries matters are still worse there is still hardly any action at all against AIDS and scarcely any effort to make HIV visible It is no wonder that the epidemic is still emerging and in some places is altogether out of control
