Hoffman, 1985 No descriptive material is available for this title The Catholic Historical Review, 1922 Le Pense-bête Didier Gourvennec Ogor, The Economy in its house Marcel Aucoin, 2020-02-03T00:00:00+01:00 The title The Economy in its House echoes Xenophon's book oconomicus which focuses on the relationship of a house with its environment rather than on trade It also makes reference to a question from Socrates What is a house It is by striving to explore these relationships and questions reflecting the conditions of our time that we have concluded that the economy is in its house and that changes everything Indeed this leads us to establish a foundation new but grafted onto ancient roots for economics By integrating into our theory the unpredictable environment we provide economists with a framework to address the multiple issues that arise not only in our common home the Earth but also to all other houses Our model is based on the hypothesis of the random nature of the economy which brings us closer to modern physics and its methods On these pillars our model abstracts economic agents and focuses attention on the interconnected constituents of the house both their mutual statistical relationships and those they have with the environment The covariance matrix that retraces such relationships indicates how the environment disrupts on average each constituent during a period This gives the possibility to explore the destinies of the houses in the short middle or long run through crises and changing perspectives of ruin It makes it possible to identify three essential variables the growth factor the growth energy and finally the prices root which is also the weight of the unit of account and an anti ruin coefficient One of the characteristics of modern houses is that among their constituents positive covariances outweigh negative covariances Hence their growth we explore its links with the reduction of inequalities and its pathologies pollution and depletion of resources We shows how we can fight against crises and inequalities through greater solidarity We show that one can model any house by use of a miniature house its soul with two components the hearth and the roof and three guiding parameters exposure to hazards security and performance With these guides one expresses all the macroeconomic variables relative to a house These are preserved by passing from a house whatever its importance to its soul The wealth of the results obtained shows that the path open must allow economists to go farther and safer in their work while also enabling a broader public to better understand what the economy is

Berichte ,1969 Mothers of Invention Miléna Santoro,2002 Mothers of Invention draws together innovative works of fiction written by French and Quebec feminists in the mid 1970s Through an analysis of the strategies adopted by Hélène Cixous Madeleine Gagnon Nicole Brossard and Jeanne Hyvrard as they rework maternal and pro creative metaphors and play with language and conventions of genre Milna Santoro identifies a transatlantic community of women writers who share a subversive aesthetic that participates in even as it transforms the tradition of the avant garde in twentieth century literature Santoro elucidates notoriously difficult works by the four mothers of invention studied Cixous and Hyvrard from France and Gagnon and Brossard from Quebec showing how the rethinking of images associated with femininity and motherhood a disruptive approach to language and a subversive relation to novelistic conventions characterize these writers search for a writing that will best express women s desires and dreams Mothers of Invention situates such ideologically motivated textual practices within the avant garde tradition even as it suggests how women s experimental writings collectively transform our understanding of that tradition Santoro makes clear the shared ethical and aesthetic commitments that nourished a transatlantic community whose contribution to mainstream literature and cultural productions including postmodernism is still being felt today

World War II in Andreï Makine's Historiographic Metafiction Helena Duffy,2018-04-17 Can it be ever possible to write about war in a work of fiction asks a protagonist of one of Makine s strongly metafictional and intensely historical novels Helena Duffy s World War II in Andre Makine s Historiographic Metafiction redirects this question at the Franco Russian author s fiction itself by investigating its portrayal of Soviet involvement in the struggle against Hitler To write back into the history of the Great Fatherland War its unmourned victims invalids Jews POWs women or starving Leningraders is the self acknowledged ambition of a novelist committed to the postmodern empowerment of those hitherto silenced by dominant historiographies Whether Makine succeeds at giving voice to those whose suffering jarred with the triumphalist narrative of the war concocted by Soviet authorities is the central concern of Duffy s book

The Proustian Quest William Carter,Jeffrey Lange,1994-02 An ambitious study the fruit of sustained work over many years Professor Carter s book deploys a stunning knowledge of Proust and places Carter among the first line of Proust scholars in the country Roger Shattuck Boston University The Proustian Quest is the first full length study that explores the influence of social change on Proust s vision In Remembrance of Things Past Proust describes how the machines of transportation and communication transformed fashion social mores time space perception and the understanding of the laws of nature Concentrating on the motif of speed Carter establishes the centrality of the modern world to the novel s main themes and produces a far reaching synthesis that demonstrates the work s profound structural unity

Incredible Modernism John Attridge,2016-05-23 With the twentieth century came a new awareness of just how much an individual was obliged to accept on trust and this heightened awareness of social trust in turn prompted new kinds of anxiety about fraudulence and deception Beginning with the premise that the traditional liberal concept of trust as a bond of society entered a period of crisis around the turn of the twentieth century this collection examines the profound influence of this shift on a wide range of modernist writers including James Joyce Marcel Proust Gertrude Stein Ezra Pound Wyndham Lewis H D Ford Madox Ford Samuel Beckett Ralph Ellison and Wallace Stevens In examining the importance of trust and fraudulence during the period the contributors take up a diverse set of topics related to reception the institutions of modernism the history of authorship the nature of representation authenticity genre social order and politics Taken as a whole Incredible Modernism provides concrete historical coordinates for the study of twentieth century trust while also arguing that a problem of trust is central to the institutions and formal innovations of modernism itself

Proust Writing Photography Aine Larkin,2017-07-05 The importance of vision and visual arts such as painting theatre and sculpture in Marcel Proust s A la recherche du temps perdu has long been affirmed another significant system of visual representation in the novel is photography Proust appropriated photography as a practice with its own distinctive characteristics which could inform his writing about the processes of perception and memory Through close textual analysis of scenes where photography is experienced or observed as a practice and scenes where photography is written into the body of the text Aine Larkin offers an invigorating new study that sheds genuinely new light on the presence of photographic motifs in Proust s novel and the subtlety of Proust's engagement with this modern imaging system in his work The Economy in its house. 2022 edition Marcel Aucoin, 2023-06-26T00:00:00+02:00 The title The Economy in its House echoes Xenophon's book oconomicus which focuses on the relationship of a house with its environment rather than on trade. It also makes reference to a question from Socrates: What is a house? It is by striving to explore these relationships and questions reflecting the conditions of our time that we have concluded that the economy is in its house and that changes everything. Indeed, this leads us to establish a foundation new but grafted onto ancient roots for economics. By integrating into our theory the unpredictable environment we provide economists with a framework to address the multiple issues that arise not only in our common home, the Earth, but also to all other houses. Our model is based on the hypothesis of the random nature of the economy which brings us closer to modern physics and its methods. On these pillars, our model abstracts economic agents and focuses attention on the interconnected constituents of the house, both their mutual statistical relationships and those they have with the environment. The covariance matrix that retraces such relationships indicates how the environment disrupts on average each constituent during a period. This gives the possibility to explore the destinies of the houses in the short, middle, or long run through crises and changing perspectives of ruin. It makes it possible to identify three essential variables: the growth factor, the growth energy, and finally the prices root, which is also the weight of the unit of account and an anti-ruin coefficient. One of the characteristics of modern houses is that among their constituents, positive covariances outweigh negative covariances. Hence their growth, we explore its links with the reduction of inequalities and its pathologies: pollution and depletion of resources. We show how we can fight against crises and inequalities through greater solidarity. We show that one can model any house by use of a miniature house, its soul with two components: the hearth and the roof, and three guiding parameters: exposure to hazards, security, and performance. With these guides, one expresses all the macroeconomic variables relative to a house. These are preserved by passing from a house whatever its importance to its soul. The wealth of the results obtained shows that the path open must allow economists to go farther and safer in their work while also enabling a broader public to better understand what the economy is. A tort et à travers Fabien Rouillard, 2017-01-20 Tu te souviens. On avait dit qu'il serait facile d'être ceux que nous avons aimés. On avait oublié qu'il fallait aussi aimer ses ennemis. Ne restait plus qu'à aimer tort et travers. The Unconscious in Philosophy, and French and European Literature Fernand Vial, 2009 This book traces the idea of the unconscious as it emerges in French and European literature. It discusses the functioning of the normal unconscious mind and provides examples of the abnormal unconscious in poems and literature. Psychiatric cases as they are understood today are illustrated as mirrored in literature describing the functioning of the disturbed mind.
