

English as Foreign Language Learning Experience

✓ Exclusively available on IvyPanda

Speaking and learning a foreign language can be a hard task. Of course, the learner and his/her interlocutors have to be patient. Clearly, there are loads of difficulties and the process can be very stressful for a person. I have experienced this and I can share my own ideas. First, I believed it was a great torture and knew I had to 'polish' my language to be as good as native speaker. I was too concerned with mastering the language and I missed out on more important things. After reading Amy Tan's and Rolando Niella's works, I learnt a lot about people like me and the way these experiences can be less painful and more valuable for both the learner and his/her interlocutor.

In the first place, I have to stress that speaking with people in a foreign language is often a difficult thing especially at the first stage of learning. Though, I did not have such problems as Niella, I also had numerous cases of misunderstanding. Moreover, I also had problems with personal styles, accents and speakers' pace. Interestingly, I have visited one restaurant and I loved talking to a waitress. She had a curious accent. First, it was tough to communicate with her but then I started understanding her better. Now I am even looking for people with high pace or specific accent to practice my English. Furthermore, I realized I have paid significant attention to the way I speak. Just like Niella and Tan, I focused on the choice of words or tenses, my grammar or intonation instead of simply trying to speak and share ideas.

Nevertheless, speaking correct English does not mean being able to express ideas well and sometimes it is important to let go and simply speak without focusing on possible mistakes. Of course, if I made too many mistakes, it would make communication impossible. However, I also noticed that a wrong word and tense usually do not change the meaning. Tan stresses that some of her teachers were too strict. I found it easier and less frustrating to communicate with people if I do not focus on my mistakes. When I stopped paying much attention to them while speaking, my fluency improved and my interlocutors understood me almost all the time. I guess Niella's English was extremely poor if people stopped talking to him. I also believe those people were in a hurry or in a bad mood. In my life, I had only a few experiences like that. For

Experiential Learning in Foreign Language Education Viljo Kohonen, Riitta Jaatinen, Pauli Kaikkonen, Jorma Lehtovaara, 2014-06-11 The goal of foreign language teaching is expanding from communicative competence towards an intercultural action competence Essential in the new orientation is the shift towards a more balanced emphasis between the external factors in the learning environment and the personal capacity conceptions beliefs and assumptions inside the learner's mind. As part of the changes, assessment is seen as an important means of enhancing the learning processes, emphasising the role of reflective self-assessment. The text explores and integrates the necessary knowledge base and practices in foreign language education in terms of the basic concepts of experiential learning, intercultural learning, autobiographical knowledge and teacher development together with the philosophical underpinnings of foreign language education.

New Trends in Foreign Language Teaching Raúl Ruiz Cecilia, António Lopes, 2019-01-15. Language teaching approaches, methods and procedures are constantly undergoing reassessment. New ideas keep emerging as the growing complexity of the means of communication and the opportunities created by technology put language skills to new uses. In addition, the political, social and economic impact of globalisation, the new demands of the labour market that result from it, the pursuit of competitiveness, the challenges of intercultural communication and the diversification of culture have opened new perspectives on the central role that foreign languages have come to play in the development of contemporary societies. This book provides an insight into the latest developments in the field and discusses the new trends in foreign language teaching in four major areas: namely, methods and approaches, teacher training, innovation in the classroom and evaluation and assessment.

on Becoming A Language Educator Christine Pears Casanave, Sandra R. Schecter, 2012-11-12. These personal essays by first and second language researchers and practitioners reflect on issues, events and people in their lives that helped them carve out their career paths or clarify an important dimension of their missions as educators. Their narratives depict the ways in which professionals from diverse backgrounds and work settings have grappled with issues in language education that concern all of us: the sources and development of beliefs about language and education, the constructing of a professional identity in the face of ethical and ideological dilemmas and the constraints and inspirations of teaching and learning environments. They have come together as a collective to engage in a courageous new form of academic discourse, one with the potential to change the field. Many of the authors write their stories of having begun their work with voices positioned at the margins. Now, as established professionals, they feel strong enough collectively to risk the telling and, through their telling, to encourage other voices. This volume is intended to provide graduate students, teachers and researchers in language education with insights into the struggles that characterize the professional development of language educators. Both readers and contributors should use the stories to view their own professional lives from fresh perspectives and be inspired to reflect in new ways on the ideological, ethical and philosophical underpinnings of their professional personae.

Considering Emotions in Critical English Language Teaching Sarah Benesch, 2013-03-01. Groundbreaking in the ways it makes new connections among emotion, critical theory and pedagogy, this book explores the role of students and teachers' emotions in college instruction, illuminating key literacy and identity issues faced by immigrant students learning English in postsecondary institutions. Offering a rich blend of and interplay between theory and practice it asks How have emotions and affect been theorized from a critical perspective and how might these theories be applied to English language teaching and learning What do complex and shifting emotions such as hope disappointment indignation and compassion have to do with English language teaching and learning in the neoliberal context in public universities How might attention to emotions lead to deeper understanding of classroom interactions and more satisfying educational experiences for English language teachers and students These questions are addressed not just theoretically but also practically with examples from college classes of assigned readings student writing and classroom talk in which various emotions came into play Thought provoking accessible and useful this is a must read book for scholars students and teachers in the field of English language teaching
