8. A nurse is preparing to assess a patient for orthostatic hypotension. Which of the following will the nurse expect to assess for this condition?

- A. Bradycardia
- B. Flushed skin
- C. Head position shift
- D. Increased orthostatic pressure

ANSWER: C

Orthostatic hypotension is a condition in which a patient's blood pressure drops when moving from lying to sitting or standing. It is caused by a variety of factors, including dehydration, medication, and aging. The nurse should assess for this condition by having the patient lie down for 5 minutes, then stand and measure blood pressure and heart rate. A drop in blood pressure of at least 20 mmHg or a drop in heart rate of at least 10 bpm is indicative of orthostatic hypotension.

9. The patient has been instructed to avoid alcohol consumption.

Which of the following is the nurse's best response?

- A. Advise the patient to limit alcohol intake.
- B. Explain the amount of alcohol intake.
- C. Encourage moderate alcohol intake.
- D. Explain the effects of alcohol intake.

ANSWER: C

The nurse should explain to the patient that moderate alcohol consumption is safe for most people. However, the nurse should also explain that excessive alcohol consumption can lead to health problems, including liver disease, heart disease, and high blood pressure. The nurse should also explain that alcohol can interact with certain medications, so the patient should always check with their healthcare provider before taking any new medications.

10. A nurse is caring for a patient with a urinary tract infection (UTI).
