Teaching Mathematical Reasoning in Secondary School Classrooms Karin Brodie,2009-10-08 For too many students mathematics consists of facts in a vacuum to be memorized because the instructor says so and to be forgotten when the course of study is completed In this all too common scenario young learners often miss the chance to develop skills specifically reasoning skills that can serve them for a lifetime The elegant pages of Teaching Mathematical Reasoning in Secondary School Classrooms propose a more positive solution by presenting a reasoning and discussion based approach to teaching mathematics emphasizing the connections between ideas or why math works The teachers whose work forms the basis of the book create a powerful record of methods interactions and decisions including dealing with challenges and impasses involving this elusive topic And because this approach shifts the locus of authority from the instructor to mathematics itself students gain a system of knowledge that they can apply not only to discrete tasks relating to numbers but also to the larger world of people and the humanities A sampling of the topics covered Whole class discussion methods for teaching mathematics reasoning Learning mathematical reasoning through tasks Teaching mathematics using the five strands Classroom strategies for promoting mathematical reasoning Maximizing student contributions in the classroom Overcoming student resistance to mathematical conversations Teaching Mathematical Reasoning in Secondary School Classrooms makes a wealth of cutting edge strategies available to mathematics teachers and teacher educators This book is an invaluable resource for researchers in mathematics and curriculum reform and of great interest to teacher educators and teachers Current Issues in

Education, Privatisation and Social Justice Ian Macpherson, Susan Robertson, Geoffrey Walford, 2014-05-12 The involvement of private actors in education is not new yet in the last decade critical issues have arisen that demand close scrutiny This volume explores emerging forms of the private through case studies from Africa South Asia and South East Asia and makes three related observations First what is new about these manifestations is their scale scope and penetration into almost all aspects of the education endeavour from the administrative apparatus to policymaking and from formal provision in education settings to out of school activities such as private tutoring Second what is particularly controversial about these developments is how education itself is being recast as a sector it is increasingly being opened up to profit making and trade and to agenda setting by private commercial interests Third the learner is increasingly conceptualised as a consumer and education a consumer good The case studies therefore enable us to see more clearly how different forms of the private in education alter what is at stake for whom and with what outcomes and the consequences for individuals and societies In turn these raise the very important question about what they mean for our conceptualisations of education learning and teaching on the one hand and for education as a site and means for emancipation on the other These are profound social justice concerns and ones that make this volume distinctive This book sets out to address these hard but urgent questions and will be of interest to academics and students of education education researchers government personnel and policymakers
