Survival Migration Alexander Betts, 2013-07-12 International treaties conventions and organizations to protect refugees were established in the aftermath of World War II to protect people escaping targeted persecution by their own governments However the nature of cross border displacement has transformed dramatically since then Such threats as environmental change food insecurity and generalized violence force massive numbers of people to flee states that are unable or unwilling to ensure their basic rights as do conditions in failed and fragile states that make possible human rights deprivations Because these reasons do not meet the legal understanding of persecution the victims of these circumstances are not usually recognized as refugees preventing current institutions from ensuring their protection In this book Alexander Betts develops the concept of survival migration to highlight the crisis in which these people find themselves Examining flight from three of the most fragile states in Africa Zimbabwe the Democratic Republic of Congo and Somalia Betts explains variation in institutional responses across the neighboring host states There is massive inconsistency Some survival migrants are offered asylum as refugees others are rounded up detained and deported often in brutal conditions The inadequacies of the current refugee regime are a disaster for human rights and gravely threaten international security In Survival Migration Betts outlines these failings illustrates the enormous human suffering that results and argues strongly for an expansion of protected categories

La Roumanie et la Bulgarie se sont inscrites dans le nouveau contexte d'élargissement de l'UE avec une intensification de la migration des professionnels de santé L'ampleur prise par la migration des médecins roumains et bulgares est liée à l'effondrement économique et à la dégradation de la qualité de vie dans ces deux pays Cette situation a des effets négatifs sur les systèmes de santé et sur l'accès aux soins pour la population Migration internationale africaine Rachid Chaabita, 2017-01-01

Aujourd'hui les caractéristiques des migrations sont surtout spontanées et les situations socio-économiques en sont les principales responsables En Afrique particulièrement l'exode rural le chômage des diplômés l'instabilité politique et l'absence de la sécurité représentent les principales raisons de vouloir migrer Mais paradoxalement l'Afrique montre aujourd'hui ses richesses naturelles humaines et devient une force économique un espace d'accueil de capitaux et d'investissements Le continent se lance aujourd'hui vers un avenir prometteur et un futur riche en termes de mouvements humains et économiques Africa and France Dominic

Thomas,2013-03-20 An excellent and incisive look at identity immigration and culture in postcolonial France Journal of West African History This stimulating and insightful book reveals how increased control over immigration has changed cultural and social production in theater literature and even museum construction Dominic Thomas s analysis unravels the complex cultural and political realities of long standing mobility between Africa and Europe Thomas questions the attempt to place strict limits on what it means to be French or European and offers a sense of what must happen to bring about a renewed sense of integration and global Frenchness Essential reading for anyone investigating the debates surrounding contemporary French identity and the ever changing relationship between France and her former colonial possessions African Studies Bulletin

Multilingual Europe, Multilingual Europeans ,2015-06-29 Multilingualism is a crucial if often unrecognized marker of new European identities In this collection of essays we observe how a plurilinguist and pluricultural political entity practices and theorizes multilingualism We ask which types of multilingualism are defined encouraged or discouraged at the level of official policies but also at the level of communities We look at speakers of hegemonic or minority languages at travellers and long term migrants or their children and analyse how their conversations are represented in official documents visual art cinema literature and popular culture The volume is divided into two parts that focus respectively on Multilingual Europe and Multilingual Europeans The first series of chapters explore the extent to which multilingualism is treated as both a challenge and an asset by the European Union examine which factors contribute to the proliferation of languages globalisation the enlargement of the European Union and EU language policies The second part of the volume concentrates on the ways in which cultural productions represent the linguistic practices of Europeans in a way that emphasizes the impossibility to separate language from culture nationality but also class ethnicity or gender The chapters suggest that each form of plurilinguism needs to be carefully analysed rather than celebrated or condemned
