Threatening Dystopias Kasia Paprocki, 2021-12-15 Bangladesh is currently ranked as one of the most climate vulnerable countries in the world In Threatening Dystopias Kasia Paprocki investigates the politics of climate change adaptation throughout the South Asian nation Drawing on ethnographic and archival fieldwork she engages with developers policy makers scientists farmers and rural migrants to show how Bangladeshi and global elites ignore the history of landscape transformation and its attendant political conflicts Paprocki looks at how groups craft economic narratives and strategies that redistribute power and resources away from peasant communities Although these groups claim that increased production of export commodities will reframe the threat of climate change into an opportunity for economic development and growth the reality is not so simple For the country's rural poor these promises ring hollow As development dispossesses the poor from agrarian livelihoods outmigration from peasant communities leads to precarious existences in urban centers And a vision of development in which urbanization and export led growth are both desirable and inevitable is not one the land and its people can sustain Threatening Dystopias shows how a powerful rural movement although hampered by an all consuming climate emergency is seeking climate justice in Bangladesh

The Complacent Class Tyler Cowen, 2017-02-28 A Wall Street Journal and Washington Post Bestseller Tyler Cowen's blog Marginal Revolution is the first thing I read every morning And his brilliant new book The Complacent Class has been on my nightstand after I devoured it in one sitting I am at round the clock Cowen saturation right now Malcolm Gladwell Since Alexis de Tocqueville restlessness has been accepted as a signature American trait Our willingness to move take risks and adapt to change have produced a dynamic economy and a tradition of innovation from Ben Franklin to Steve Jobs The problem according to legendary blogger economist and best selling author Tyler Cowen is that Americans today have broken from this tradition we're working harder than ever to avoid change We're moving residences less marrying people more like ourselves and choosing our music and our mates based on algorithms that wall us off from anything that might be too new or too different Match.com matches us in love Spotify and Pandora match us in music Facebook matches us to just about everything else Of course this matching culture brings tremendous positives music we like partners who make us happy neighbors who want the same things We're more
