Water - Technology Reinhard F. Hüttel, Oliver Bens, Christine Bismuth, Sebastian Hoechstetter, 2015-11-02 This book presents the results of the Interdisciplinary Research Group Society Water Technology of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities It describes interdisciplinary evaluation criteria for major water engineering projects MWEPs and portrays an application to the Lower Jordan Valley Middle East and the Fergana Valley Central Asia Both areas are characterised by transboundary conflicts by challenges due to demographic and climate change and by political and societal pressures Based on the findings the book provides recommendations for science and political decisions makers as well as for international financing institutions In addition it outlines research gaps from an interdisciplinary perspective In the past MWEPs have been used as an instrument to cope with the demands of growing populations and to enhance development progress Experiences with MWEPs have shown that a purely technical approach has not always brought about the desired results In many cases MWEPs have even resulted in negative implications for society and environment Therefore improved management strategies and enhanced technologies for a sustainable water resource management system are a prerequisite to meet present and future challenges And moreover the continuous evaluation and optimisation of these measures is likewise a must

Social and Cultural Perspectives on Health, Technology and Medicine Ciara Kierans, Kirsten Bell, Carol Kingdon, 2016-02-22 Developments in health science and technology have long provided fertile analytical ground for social science disciplines This book focuses on the critical and enduring importance of core concepts in anthropology and sociology for interrogating and keeping pace with developments in the life sciences The authors consider how transformations in medical and scientific knowledge serve to reanimate older controversies giving new life to debates about relations between society culture knowledge and individuals They reflect on the particular legacies and ongoing relevance of concepts such as culture society magic production kinship exchange and the body The chapters draw on the work of key historical and contemporary figures across the social sciences and include a range of illustrative case studies to explore topics such as transplant medicine genetic counselling cancer therapy reproductive health and addiction Of particular interest to students and scholars of anthropology sociology and science and technology studies this volume will also be a valuable resource for those working in the fields of health and medicine

Media Exposure During Infancy and Early Childhood Rachel Barr, Deborah Nichols Linebarger, 2016-11-24 This book discusses the burgeoning world of young children s exposure to educational media and its myriad implications for research theory practice and policy Experts across academic disciplines and the media fill knowledge gaps and address concerns regarding apps eBooks and other screen based technologies which are being used by younger and younger children and content delivery and design Current research shows the developmental nuances of the child as learner in home school and mobile contexts and the changes as parenting and pedagogy accommodate the complexities of the new interactive world The book also covers methods for evaluating the quality of new media and prosocial digital innovations such as video support for separated families and specialized apps for at risk toddlers Highlights of the coverage The role of content and context on learning and development from mobile media Learning from TV and touchscreens during early childhood Educational preschool programming How producers craft engaging characters to drive content delivery The parental media mediation context of young children s media use Supporting children to find their own agency in learning Media Exposure During Infancy and Early Childhood is an essential resource for researchers clinicians and related professionals and graduate students in diverse fields including infancy and early childhood development child and school psychology social work pediatrics and educational psychology Urban Informatics Kristene Unsworth,Andrea Forte,Richardson Dilworth,2017-10-02 Information shapes urban spaces in ways that most people rarely stop to consider From data driven planning to grassroots activism to influencing the routes we walk bike and drive new information technologies are helping city dwellers to leverage information in new ways These technologies shape the uses and character of urban spaces Information technologies and tools such as social media and GIS tracking applications are being used by individuals as they go about their daily lives not as alternatives to social interaction but as opportunities to participate in the shared experience of urban life This edited volume focuses on the creative application and management of information technologies in urban environments with an emphasis on the intersection between citizen participation in creating city environments and the policy making that supports it The chapters address critical issues including the digital divide transportation planning use of public spaces community building and local events This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Urban Technology
