affairs Aspirations, Access and Attainment Neil Murray, Christopher Klinger, 2013-10-01 It is perhaps ironic that as the global financial crisis has in some cases led governments and institutions to pull back from and or set more modest goals and associated funding around widening participation there is an ever growing sense that the ideals buttressing the widening participation movement are becoming more universally acknowledged by educators across the globe That acknowledgement has translated into action on the ground via such means as policy formulation strategic planning and target setting each of which often reflects local contexts and manifests a regional flavour There is also however an increasing realisation that there are commonalities in the challenges involved with national or regional initiatives to increase the participation of non traditional groups in higher education and that the drivers of such initiatives and ultimately the cohorts they target stand to benefit considerably from an open exchange of ideas and sharing of experience This book brings together current regional perspectives on widening participation as presented by prominent academics researchers policy makers and students from across the globe It will create for policy makers institutions and individuals interested in enabling access a useful and informative resource that will introduce formulate shape and reinforce the ideas and aims of the World Congresses on widening access As the contributors maintain in an increasingly globalised market economy and in the face of recent seismic economic political and social change around the world it is imperative to both secure existing talent within our populations and uncover and nurture new sources of talent The series of essays featured in this book will explore anticipate and highlight themes underpinning a global movement towards a step change in thinking strategies and policies one that places youth and students from around the world at its heart Bridging the Gap Between the Abundance of American Higher
