Attempting to Break the Current Sailing Record Around the World using Spherical Trigonometry Juan Casiano,2018-07-11

Document from the year 2013 in the subject Mathematics Geometry grade 3 00 language English abstract Ever since the creation of math mathematicians have attempted to extend or challenge the work of another mathematician with the intent to try and disprove their discoveries The applications of math we now use to solve the problems of life are due to discoveries of these great minds Mathematics is no longer a system to count objects as this examination will attempt to Propose a Hypothetical Method of Attempting to Break the Current Sailing Record Around the World using Spherical Trigonometry The scope in which this examination will take into account is that of spherical trigonometry at its sole Situations will be adjusted to make spherical trigonometry the tool to attempt to challenge the current record of sailing around the world It will not include the vector components entirely Needless to say the majority of the trigonometry used in this examination will be explained just enough to be understandable for the common math enthusiast The record breaking component is only a form in which this sub branch of spherical geometry can be applied in the real world The result of this examination ended with a success The method taken resulted in breaking the current record held by Lo ck Peyron within an astonishing 45 days 13 hours 42 minutes and 53 seconds But from this examination it was derived that with respect to the given points that you could go around the world in 20 days 17 hours 5 minutes and 17 seconds when going at a speed of 40 knots However this result was attained by not taking into consideration certain external factors that Lo ck Peyron may have encountered when he broke the record Therefore if the condition were just right and a constant speed of 40 knots was kept consistent throughout the results from this examination would be valid English Literature for the IB Diploma David James,Nic

National Education Policy Center s Schools of Opportunity project was designed to highlight public high schools that are using research based practices for closing opportunity gaps in student learning The project recognizes schools that are working to address the needs of all students regardless of their zip codes or their school's average test scores. By embracing a shift away from the nation's myopic focus on standardized test scores, the program's focus is on inputs: access to equitable, exemplary policies and practices that students experience every school day, not outcomes. This follows from research findings that schools alone cannot fix the problems created by the stark inequalities in our society. Instead, schools should be expected to do their part by responding to inequities with research-based practices. The book features case studies of schools that demonstrate key criteria that other schools can emulate, such as an inclusive school climate, support for language-minority students, performance-based assessment, teacher professionalism, a commitment to detracking, and supports for students in need. Schools of Opportunity builds an argument for shifting the way that excellent public high schools are recognized and built. Book Features: Provides accounts of school reform jointly told by researcher-practitioner teams, connecting current research with successful efforts of educators to create outstanding learning environments; Brings together the voices of principals and school leaders who share stories of how their work has unfolded in their school district and state contexts; Identifies the school leadership and teacher practices that close opportunity gaps for student learning and what it takes to implement them. Contributors: Dwane Chapelle, Janet Eckerson, Lourenco Garcia, Matt Garcia, Kristen Goessling, Kimberly Grayson, Jill Gurtner, Ted Hamann, Ann Ishimaru, Mark Larson, Julie Mead, John Murphy, Jeannie Oakes, Jeff Palladino, Derek Pierce, Jenifer Rayne, Kellie Rolstad, Lorrie Shepard, Kate Somerville, Michelle Valladares, Kathryn Wiley. Backpacker, 2000-03. Backpacker brings the outdoors straight to the reader's doorstep, inspiring and enabling them to go more places and enjoy nature more often. The authority on active adventure, Backpacker is the world's first GPS-enabled magazine and the only magazine whose editors personally test the hiking trails, camping gear, and survival tips they publish. Backpacker's Editors' Choice Awards, an industry honor recognizing design, feature, and product innovation, has become the gold standard against which all other outdoor industry awards are measured.
