

INVISIBLE MAN Discussion Questions

Prologue

- Why does Ralph fight his battle with Manipulated Light & Power? (7-8)
- Why does Ralph need light? (7)
- What does Ralph mean when he says he is invisible? (11-12) - The answers to this is simultaneously complex and simple. Do yourself the exercise in a manner that respects this paradox.
- How does Ralph see himself? (12)

Chapter 1: The Berlin Room

- Should Ralph accept the world as it is? Why or why not?
- In what ways does the scholarly rig reflect the dream's message that the goal of society is to "keep this raggedy rascal running"? (22)?
 - Consider: "It goes along very fast, some twenty years, all my life I had been looking for something, and everywhere I turned someone threatened me what it was. I accepted that answer too, though there were others: the traditional and even self-nominating. I was naïve. I was looking for myself and telling everyone except myself questions about it, and only I could answer. I could not find time and much painful bewilderment of my education to achieve a tradition someone else appears to have been fortunate. That man nobody but myself, but then had no power that I am, inevitable man?" (22)
- Discuss the meaning of Ralph's words, here, and everywhere (and expectations). Things considered a mark of desirable conduct – just as my grandfather had been. And what puzzled me was that the old man had died with as meachery... (114-117)

Chapter 2: Trueblood's Case (NOTE: Chapters 2-3 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- Why is a life-sized statue more commanding than a man that is alive? (28)
- Black involvement in Mr. Norton's family depicts/depicts what he expects – it is a place and interest in Trueblood's story is good for a manifestation of his own sexual feelings for the daughter of the unkillable Black man has acted out the white man's fantasy – he has "looked upon a man and had not dreamed" (line 100). Norton's own internal name is – "You feel no other turmoil?" (31) "Parents don't that people spend all of their lives building a fortress around a structure to govern behavior, when a face itself is the truest reality. I could not accept it as reality – he knows he has "done the worst thing a man could do ever do in his family" but he returns to live with his family – "You a man and a man don't leave his family" (36) Does Norton accept his true reality? Does he know who he really is, or does he wear a mask?

Chapter 3: Golden Day Bar/Batmitz (NOTE: Chapters 3-4 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- In what ways does the scene at the Golden Day reflect the problems of society?
- What role, do you think, does the doctor act (40-42) play in Bloom's larger purposes for Invisible Man?
- What does the number of one play a contributive role?

Chapter 4: Conclusion (NOTE: Chapters 3-4 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- The message for Jack Macon from his grandfather (164-165) makes Ralph as angry as Dr. Bludso's was moments prior. Why?
- In the face of all of the confusing events and feelings of the past chapters, Ralph states that "Dr. Bludso's attitude toward Mr. Norton was the most confusing thing of all" (165, 167-7)

Invisible Man's Literary Heritage: Benito Cereno and Moby Dick Valerie Bonita Gray, 2022-07-04 Using Critical Theory Lois Tyson, 2013-05-13 Lois Tyson explains the basic concepts of six critical theories in popular academic use today: psychoanalytic, Marxist, feminist, gay/lesbian, African American and post-colonial, and shows how they can be employed to interpret five short literary works in the book. Father-Daughter Incest in

Twentieth-Century American Literature Christine Grogan, 2016-10-03 The first major study to challenge the narrow definition of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) by rereading six American literary texts, this book argues for the importance of literature in representing not just circumscribed singular traumatic events as Cathy Caruth argued in the late nineties, but for giving voice to chronic and cumulative or complex traumatic experiences. This interdisciplinary study traces the development of father-daughter incest narratives published in the last hundred years from male-authored fiction to female-authored memoir, bringing new readings to Fitzgerald's Tender Is the Night, Ellison's Invisible Man and the Dylan Farrow-Woody Allen case. This study builds on the work of those ushering in a second wave of trauma theory, which has argued that the difficulty of speaking about a traumatic experience is not necessarily caused by neurobiological changes that prevent victims from recalling details. Rather, it's from social and political repercussions. In other words, they argue that many who experience trauma aren't unable to deliver accounts; they fear the results. There is a significant gender component to trauma whose implications, along with those of race and class, have largely gone unexamined in the first wave of trauma theory. Exploring two additional questions about articulating trauma, this book asks what happens when the voice of trauma is crying out from what Toni Morrison has called the most delicate, most vulnerable member of society: a female child, and second, what happens when the trauma is not just a time-limited event but chronic and cumulative experiences. Some traumatic experiences, namely father-daughter incest, are culturally reduced to the untellable, and yet accounts of paternal incest are readily available in American literature This book is written in part as a response to the psychological community which failed to include complex PTSD in the latest edition of the DSM DSM 5 denying victims many of whom are father daughter incest survivors the validation and recognition they deserve and leaving many misdiagnosed and thereby mistreated Worldly Acts and Sentient Things Robert A. Chodat, 2018-07-05 Ants ghosts cultures thunderstorms stock markets robots computers this is just a partial list of the sentient things that have filled American literature over the last century From modernism forward writers have given life and voice to both the human and the nonhuman and in the process addressed the motives behaviors and historical pressures that define lives or things both everyday and extraordinary In Worldly Acts and Sentient Things Robert Chodat exposes a major shortcoming in recent accounts of twentieth century discourse What is often seen as the death of agency is better described as the displacement of agency onto new and varied entities Writers as diverse as Gertrude Stein Saul Bellow Ralph Ellison and Don DeLillo are preoccupied with a cluster of related questions Which entities are capable of believing something saying something desiring hoping hating or doing Which things in turn do we treat as worthy of our care respect and worship Drawing on a philosophical tradition exemplified by Ludwig Wittgenstein and Wilfrid Sellars Chodat shows that the death of the Cartesian ego need not entail the elimination of purposeful action altogether Agents do not dissolve or die away in modern thought and literature they proliferate some in human forms some not Chodat distinguishes two ideas of agency in particular One locates purposes in embodied beings persons the other in disembodied entities presences Worldly Acts and Sentient Things is a an engaging blend of philosophy and literary theory for anyone interested in modern and contemporary literature narrative studies psychology ethics and cognitive science Across Black Spaces George Yancy, 2020-01-31 Across Black Spaces gathers and builds on a diverse array of essays and interviews by American philosopher and leading public intellectual George Yancy Within this multidisciplinary framework are works from The New York Times The Guardian and other major media outlets which have drawn international acclaim for their spotlight on vicious racial tensions in American academia and society at large With this collection of revised and updated works Yancy engages a vast scope of social political historical linguistic and philosophical themes that together illustrate what it means to be Black in America Four sections of the book engage first moral outrage at contemporary ethical crises second the search for identity and value of vulnerability third the history and present values of Black and Africana philosophy and fourth the essential role of African American language in understanding Black lived experience Representing twenty years of persistent inquiry and advocacy Across Black Spaces celebrates Yancy's undeniable importance in American intellectual progress and essential social change Black, White, and in Color Hortense J. Spillers, 2003-05-28 Black White and in Color offers a long awaited collection of major essays by Hortense Spillers one of the most influential and inspiring black critics of the past twenty years Spanning her work from the early 1980s in which she pioneered a broadly poststructuralist approach to African American literature and extending through her turn to cultural studies in the 1990s these essays display her passionate commitment to reading as a fundamentally political act one pivotal to rewriting the humanist project Spillers is best known for her race centered revision of psychoanalytic theory and for her subtle account of the relationships between race and gender She has also given literary criticism some of its most powerful readings of individual authors represented here in seminal essays on Ralph Ellison Gwendolyn Brooks and William Faulkner Ultimately the essays collected in Black White and in Color all share Spillers s signature style heady eclectic and astonishingly productive of new ideas Anyone interested in African American culture and literature will want to read them

Why Moralize upon It? Brian Danoff,2020-07-22

Franklin Delano Roosevelt famously declared that the greatest duty of a statesman is to educate The central claim of Why Moralize upon It is that it is not only statesmen who can help educate a democratic citizenry but also novelists and filmmakers This book s title is drawn from Melville s Benito Cereno Near the end of this novella after he has put down a rebellion of enslaved Africans the American captain Amasa Delano claims that the past is passed and thus there is no need to moralize upon it Melville suggests though that it is crucial for Americans to critically examine American history and American political institutions otherwise they may be blind to the existence of injustices which will ultimately undermine democracy Danoff argues that novels and films play a crucial role in helping democratic citizens undertake the kind of moral reflection that they must engage in if they are to not only preserve their political community but also render it forever worthy of the saving as Abraham Lincoln put it Contending that some of the most profound American thinking about the nature of democratic leadership has come through novels more so than treatises or essays Danoff argues that the works of fiction examined in this book explore difficult questions rather than provide any easy answers Because these works have an ambiguous nuanced and tragic outlook they teach citizen readers how to think through the moral complexities of the political issues on which they must render judgment The rich and multi faceted democratic education that citizens glean from outstanding works of fiction is particularly necessary at a time when the media landscape is often dominated by superficial viral moments sound bites and social media posts Moreover given that we today live in an era of sharp political polarization in which partisans often demonize one another it is especially valuable for Americans to be exposed to literary and cinematic works of art which remind us that none of us have a monopoly on virtue and that all of us inhabit what Melville called the common continent of men
