Le Premier Printemps De Prague:

Under A Cruel Star: A Life in Prague 1941-1968 Heda Margolius Kovály, 2019-07-29 A story of the human spirit as its most indomitable one of the outstanding autobiographies of the century San Francisco Chronicle Once in a rare while we read a book that puts the urgencies of our time and ourselves in perspective making us confront the darker realities of human nature Mrs Kovaly experienced the two supreme horrors of what Hannah Arendt called this terrible century But her book is not just a personal memoir of inhumanity In telling her story simply without self pity she illuminates some general truths of human behavior Quietly with cumulative force it shows us how the totalitarian state feeds on the blindness and the weakness of man Anthony Lewis New York Times A wonderfully expressive writer Although her approach is above all personal Kovaly s reflections on her experiences reveal a high degree of insight into politics individual and institutional behavior and the formation of attitudes Christian Science Monitor A Jew in Czechoslovakia under the Nazis Kovaly spent the war years in the Lodz ghetto and several concentration camps losing her family and barely surviving herself Returning to Prague at the end of the war she married an old friend a bright enthusiastic young Jewish economist named Rudolf Margolius who saw the country s only hope for the future in the Communist Party Thereafter Rudolf became deputy minister for foreign trade For a time the Margoliuses lived like royalty albeit reluctantly but then in a replay of the Stalinist purges of the 1930s Rudolf and others mostly of Jewish background were arrested and hung in the infamous Slansky Trial of 1952 Kovaly s memoir of these years that end with her emigration to the West after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 are a tragic story told with aplomb humor and tenderness The reader alternately laughs and cries as Kovaly describes her mother being sent to death by Dr Mengele Czech Communist Party leader Klement Gottwald drunk at a reception the last sight of her husband the feverish happiness of the Prague Spring Highly recommended Publishers Weekly L'humanisme endurent

The International Legal System in Quest of Equity and Universality Laurence Boisson de Chazournes, Vera Gowlland-Debbas, 2021-10-18 Georges Abi Saab began his writing and teaching at a time when the process of decolonization and thereafter the quest for emancipation began to make its far reaching impact on the international scene producing significant changes in the international environment both quantitatively in increasing the number of nation States and qualitatively in changing patterns of interests and claims This was bound to result in new pressures on the international legal system itself and in a questioning of the traditional Eurocentric content of international law In his work and teaching Professor Abi Saab viewed the dynamics of international law as a function of two driving forces the emergence of the third world and the sense of injustice In his view the first driving force the emergence of the third world raised the problem of exclusion exclusion from participation in the elaboration of international law and the decision making process and exclusion as beneficiaries of the resulting rules of international law At the same time this new force introduced diversity into the international scene reflecting the richness of the international community in its different facets This process remains relevant today reflecting the contemporary problem of exclusion of new actors as well as their quest for participation The second driving force the sense of injustice posed a teleological problem for him that of defining community values in order that they capture the different facets of justice whether formal or distributive So long as there is no effective organic structure international law in his view will continue to remain effectiveness oriented reflecting rather than impacting on the structures of power Nevertheless it is undeniable that there is an on going process of development of community values and interests as Georges Abi Saab wrote with reference to international crimes law like all social phenomena is a continuous unfolding a continuous process of elaboration He has also considered that the dynamics of the international legal process itself can be captured from the perspective of international organizations as vehicles for change in the international system From his early writings Georges Abi Saab approached the United Nations Charter as a blueprint both normative and institutional for a certain type of international society International institutions with all their imperfections continue for him to be the means of realization of the law of cooperation which lies at the heart of his concept of the international system The themes selected for this volume in honour of Professor Georges Abi Saab are intended to reflect his unique and pioneering contribution to the field of international law The contributors are drawn from what he has always considered to be his large family of former students in his forty years of teaching Georges Abi Saab has acted as mentor to generations of students from all over the world who have benefited from his vision insights originality and creative and stimulating use of language The contributors also include colleagues and friends who share a similar vision of the international legal system
