Reconsidering Conceptual Change: Issues in Theory and Practice

Margarita Limón, L. Mason, 2007-05-08 The chapters in this volume derive from a symposium held in Madrid Spain from 6-8 November 1998 Organized and supported by the Autonomous University of Madrid the meeting was part of the activities of the Special Interest Group SIG on Conceptual Change of the European Association for Research on Learning and Instruction EARLI coordinated by the editors of this book The volume brings together contributions from leading researchers investigating the role of conceptual change to enhance meaningful learning in the classroom The aim of the volume is to present the state of the art on a topic that has become very relevant to explaining how students and people in general build their knowledge and incorporate new concepts and ideas The volume keeps the four main sessions in which the symposium was articulated They were structured around both theoretical and practical issues of conceptual change Particular attention was paid to discussing the characteristics of individuals prior knowledge and to the more recent topic of how to integrate social motivational and contextual aspects of learning within conceptual change research Parts 1 and 2 Creating a Vision for Your School Sarah Bainbridge, 2007-02-08 Approaching school development as a training project for all staff this book will help schools to work towards collectively selected goals Excitingly it also shows how to involve parents governors and most importantly the pupils This is in sharp contrast to most of the material available for school development which requires a top led management style The book describes a school development process consisting of two inset days followed up by a series of staff meetings A set of activities links the events and requires active participation by all staff working with pupils to complete the tasks Photocopiable resources on a CD ROM are included which will help you to use this process to reach an outcome suited to your own establishment and culture Although the example given is from a junior school the model could be used in any workplace where a unified team ethos is desired It is equally useful to successful and to failing schools because it focuses on change and development towards an agreed goal Sarah Bainbridge is Deputy Head of Air Balloon Hill Junior School in Bristol
