Student Exploration: Nuclear Reactions

[Note to teachers and students: This Gizmo was designed as a follow-up to the Nuclear Decay Gizmo. We recommend doing that activity before trying this one.]

Vocabulary: chain reaction, CNO cycle, catalyst, deuterium, electron volt, fission, fusion, isotope, nuclear reaction, positron, positron emission, proton-proton chain

Prior Knowledge Questions (Do these BEFORE using the Gizmo.)

The chart to the right gives the isotope name, element name, number of protons, and number of neutrons of three isotopes.

Isotope	Protons	Neutrons
Hydrogen-1	1	0
Carbon-12	6	6
Uranium-235	92	143

- What do you notice about the isotope number and the sum of protons and neutrons?

The isotope number is equal to the sum of the protons and neutrons.

- The element symbol for uranium-238 is $^{238}_{92}\text{U}$. This means U-238 has a total mass of 238 and contains 92 protons. Write the element symbols for the isotopes in the table:

Hydrogen-1 ^1_1H

Carbon-12 $^{12}_6\text{C}$

Uranium-235 $^{235}_{92}\text{U}$

Gizmo Warm-up

The Nuclear Reactions Gizmo simulates a particle accelerator. Particle accelerators speed up atoms to very high velocities, then crash the atoms together with enough energy to cause changes called nuclear reactions. There are three particle beams available in this Gizmo, protons, neutrons, and helium-3 nuclei.

- Click Fire Proton to engage the first particle beam.

What happens? Proton joins nucleus

- Colliding particles don't always react. Click Reset, and then click Fire neutron.

A. Does a reaction occur? No

B. Explain: Neutron traveled through the nucleus

Gizmo Student Exploration Sheet Answers:

Teaching and Learning Online Franklin S. Allaire, Jennifer E. Killham, 2023-01-01 Science is unique among the disciplines since it is inherently hands on. However, the hands on nature of science instruction also makes it uniquely challenging when teaching in virtual environments. How do we as science teachers deliver high quality experiences to secondary students in an online environment that leads to age grade level appropriate science content knowledge and literacy but also collaborative experiences in the inquiry process and the nature of science? The expansion of online environments for education poses logistical and pedagogical challenges for early childhood and elementary science teachers and early learners. Despite digital media becoming more available and ubiquitous and increases in online spaces for teaching and learning (Killham et al 2014, Wong et al 2018), PreK-12 teachers consistently report feeling underprepared or overwhelmed by online learning environments (Molnar et al 2021, Seaman et al 2018). This is coupled with persistent challenges related to elementary teachers' lack of confidence and low science teaching self-efficacy (Brigido, Borrachero, Bermejo, Gunning, Duran, Duran 2004). Ideal for undergraduate teacher candidates, graduate students, teacher educators, classroom teachers, parents, and administrators, this book addresses why and how teachers use online environments to teach science content and work with elementary students through a research-based foundation.
