

Harrod's Sporting Goods

Jim Harrod knew that service, above all, was important to his customers. Jim and Becky Harrod had opened their first store in Omaha, Nebraska in 1991. Harrod's carried a full line of sporting goods including everything from baseball bats and uniforms to fishing gear and hunting equipment. By the year 2004, there were ~~twelve~~ Harrod stores producing $5 million in total sales and generating a profit of over $200,000 per year.

On the positive side, there was an increasing demand for sporting goods as leisure time activities continued to grow. Also, the state of ~~Nebraska~~, where all twelve stores were located, was experiencing moderate growth. Finally, there had been a sharp upturn in the last decade for women's sporting goods equipment. This was particularly true of softball uniforms for high school, college, and city league women's teams. Jim's wife Becky was one of the top softball players in the city of Omaha and her extensive contacts throughout the state help to bring in new business. While Nebraska is primarily known as a football state, Omaha actually hosts the college baseball world series each year in June and this generates a lot of interest in baseball (and softball as well).

Jim, who had been a walk-on third string offensive tackle at the University of Nebraska (the Cornhuskers in Lincoln, Nebraska), took great pride in his stores as well as his prior university affiliation. He and Becky (also a University of Nebraska graduate in the mid-1980s) contributed $2,000 annually to the University of Nebraska athletic program.

The growth in the stores was the good news for Jim and Becky. The less than good news was the intense competition that they faced. Not only were they forced to compete with nationally established sporting good stores such as ~~Oshman's~~ and the Academy, but Wal-Mart and Lowe's also represented intense competition for the sporting goods dollar. It appeared that every time Wal-Mart opened a new store near one of its locations, Lowe's put up one of its "big-boxes" nearby. The national stores were extremely competitive in terms of pricing. However, Jim, Becky and their employees offered great personal service, and they hoped this would allow them to continue with their specialty niche.

In January of 2004, Becky, who served as the company's chief financial officer, walked into Jim's office and said, "I've had it with the First National Bank of Omaha. It is willing to renew our loan and line of credit, but the bank wants to charge us 2½ percentage points over prime. The prime rate is the rate at which banks make loans to their most creditworthy customers. It was 4.75 percent at the time Becky had visited
