

Random mutations occur in populations all of the time. Mutations that produce variations (ie white fur instead of brown) sometimes help an organism ADAPT to its environment BETTER. Organisms that are better adapted are more likely to live and produce offspring. Eventually, this trait can take over a population.

- How does studying embryos give us clues to which organisms are most closely related? Give an example.

Embryos that have the most similarities throughout gestation are most likely more closely related. For example, the rabbit and the human are almost identical up until the third trimester.

- What is the difference between artificial and natural selection. Give examples of each.

Artificial is driven by humans while natural selection is driven by nature. Dogs are an example of artificial selection while wolves are an example of natural selection.

- Describe the bunny lab. What made the bunny population grow? Disappear? Change?

In the bunny lab, you could add mutations that enabled the bunnies to better adapt to their environments (ie food sources, habitat, predators). A favorable trait quickly replaced the less favorable one.

- Below is a phylogeny (tree of common ancestors):

- How are common ancestors indicated? Intersecting lines.
- Which organisms are most closely related? Bear/Chimp
- Which organisms are least related? Lamprey/Chimp
- Which organism is most closely related to a Lamprey? Sunfish

- What is the definition of a species?

A population of animals that can interbreed and produce fertile offspring.

- Are ligers, zorses, and mules considered their species? Why or why not?

No. They can mate but their offspring are sterile. You cannot breed two ligers and make more ligers.

- Define "niche" and "competition". Give examples of each.

A "niche" is the role or function of an organism in its environment. "Competition" is a negative interaction between organisms where they are competing for the same limited resource (ie food or shelter). Examples: a predator's "niche" is often to control prey populations. "Competition" occurs between tigers who occupy and hunt in overlapping territories.

- What is a vestigial trait? Give an example.

A trait that is no longer needed/used but was inherited from a common ancestor. Examples: wisdom teeth, appendix, facial hair, ear muscles, etc.

- What is the difference between analogous and homologous traits? Check all that are true.

Lesson 13 Natural Selection Answers:

Lawrence Wood, 2009-09-01 Numerous opinion polls reported from time to time in the daily newspaper reveal that approximately 40% of Americans believe in Creationism 40% in Intelligent Design and 20% in Evolution Have you ever wondered why there are three such drastically different explanations of our origin Evolution The Inevitable Consequence of the Need for Species Survival explains why there are three and how and why three were developed Perhaps you are a Creationist you will meet Stephen Geoffrey who was once a Creationist He describes his agonizing reappraisal of his beliefs and eventual abandonment of Creationism Take a look it might change your views The Bible states in Genesis Chapter 7 verse 19 regarding the biblical Flood that the waters prevailed so mightily upon the earth that all the high mountains under the whole heaven were covered That s a lot of water did it really happen Chapter 9 answers this question by examining the biblical Flood in detail such as the 820 million cubic miles of water required to cover the highest mountains for which there is no credible source If you do not believe in Evolution the powerful and detailed facts in Evolution might cause you to pause and reconsider even if only for a moment

Modern Physics and Ancient Faith Stephen M. Barr, 2003-02-28 A considerable amount of public debate and media print has been devoted to the war between science and religion In his accessible and eminently readable new book Stephen M Barr demonstrates that what is really at war with religion is not science itself but a philosophy called scientific materialism Modern Physics and Ancient Faith argues that the great discoveries of modern physics are more compatible with the central teachings of Christianity and Judaism about God the cosmos and the human soul than with the atheistic viewpoint of scientific materialism Scientific materialism grew out of scientific discoveries made from the time of Copernicus up to the beginning of the twentieth century These discoveries led many thoughtful people to the conclusion that the universe has no cause or purpose that the human race is an accidental by product of blind material forces and that the ultimate reality is matter itself Barr contends that the revolutionary discoveries of the twentieth century run counter to this line of thought He uses five of these discoveries the Big Bang theory unified field theories anthropic coincidences Godel's Theorem in mathematics and quantum theory to cast serious doubt on the materialist's view of the world and to give greater credence to Judeo Christian claims about God and the universe Written in clear language Barr's rigorous and fair text explains modern physics to general readers without oversimplification Using the insights of modern physics he reveals that modern scientific discoveries and religious faith are deeply consonant Anyone with an interest in science and religion will find Modern Physics and Ancient Faith invaluable

Adaptive Origins Peter LaFrenière, 2011-01-07 In this text students are invited to rethink psychology by grounding it in the natural sciences with the understanding that evolutionary and developmental processes work together with culture to solve problems of human adaptation These processes are cast as interdependent Development cannot be understood except in the light of evolutionary theory and the best proof of evolution is the fact of development For students of evolutionary psychology all the central topics such as evolved mental modules for theory of mind or language require an understanding of the developmental processes that lead to their expression Genes as important as they are are never the whole story The role of biological factors is explored in chapters outlining evolution development genetics human origins hormones and the brain Then the integrative value of this evolutionary developmental vision in understanding key topics in psychology is illustrated by applying it to traditional area of inquiry including infancy and attachment emotions and their expression social relations with peers cognitive and language development sex differences courtship and mating violence and aggression and cooperation and competition
