Procedures:

Large Group:

- Read Are You Living?, pointing out qualities of living and nonliving things as you read.

- Review characteristics of living things.
- Give each student a card with either a living or nonliving thing. Allow a few minutes for students to discuss their object.
- Take turns letting each student answer the questions about living things: Does it move all by itself? Does it grow and change? Does it breathe? Does it need food and water to survive? Does it reproduce? Then, have students place their picture card in either the "Living" or "Nonliving" column of the t-chart.
