Formulations of Classical and Quantum Dynamical Theory, 2014-05-14. In this book, we study theoretical and practical aspects of computing methods for mathematical modelling of nonlinear systems. A number of computing techniques are considered, such as methods of operator approximation with any given accuracy, operator interpolation techniques including a non-Lagrange interpolation method of system representation subject to constraints associated with concepts of causality, memory, and stationarity, methods of system representation with an accuracy that is the best within a given class of models, methods of covariance matrix estimation, methods for low-rank matrix approximations, hybrid methods based on a combination of iterative procedures and best operator approximation, and methods for information compression and filtering under condition that a filter model should satisfy restrictions associated with causality and different types of memory. As a result, the book represents a blend of new methods in general computational analysis and specific but also generic techniques for study of systems theory and its particular branches, such as optimal filtering and information compression. Best operator approximation, Non-Lagrange interpolation, Generic Karhunen-Loève transform, Generalised low-rank matrix approximation, Optimal data compression.

literature In the present dictionary the strategy of lumping together all the various traditional descriptive labels regarding psychologists best guesses under the single descriptive term theory has been adopted The descriptive labels of principle law theory model paradigm effect hypothesis and doctrine are attached to many of the entries and all such descriptive labels are subsumed under the umbrella term theory The title of this dictionary emphasizes the term theory implying both strong and weak best guesses and is a way of indication overall the contents of this comprehensive dictionary in a parsimonious and felicitous fashion The dictionary will contain approximately 2 000 terms covering the origination development and evolution of various psychological concepts as well as the historical definition analysis and criticisms of psychological concepts Terms and definitions are in English Contains over 2 000 terms covering the origination development and evolution of various psychological concepts Covers a wide span of theories from auditory cognitive tactile and visual to humor and imagery An essential resource for psychologists needing a single source quick reference

Fairbairn's Object Relations Theory in the Clinical Setting David P. Celani, 2010 W R D Fairbairn 1889 1964 challenged the dominance of Freud's drive theory with a psychoanalytic theory based on the internalization of human relationships Fairbairn assumed that the unconscious develops in childhood and contains dissociated memories of parental neglect insensitivity and outright abuse that are impossible for the children to tolerate consciously In Fairbairn's model these dissociated memories protect developing children from recognizing how badly they are being treated and allow them to remain attached even to physically abusive parents Attachment is paramount in Fairbairn's model as he recognized that children are absolutely and unconditionally dependent on their parents Kidnapped children who remain attached to their abusive captors despite opportunities to escape illustrate this intense dependency even into adolescence At the heart of Fairbairn's model is a structural theory that organizes actual relational events into three self and object pairs one conscious pair the central ego which relates exclusively to the ideal object in the external world and two mostly unconscious pairs the child's antilibidinal ego which relates exclusively to the rejecting parts of the object and the child's libidinal ego which relates exclusively to the exciting parts of the object The two dissociated self and object pairs remain in the unconscious but can emerge and suddenly take over the individual's central ego When they emerge the other is misperceived as either an exciting or a rejecting object thus turning these internal structures into a source of transferences and reenactments Fairbairn's central defense mechanism splitting is the fast shift from central ego dominance to either the libidinal ego or the antilibidinal ego a near perfect model of the borderline personality disorder In this book David Celani reviews Fairbairn's five foundational papers and outlines their application in the clinical setting He discusses the four unconscious structures and offers the clinician concrete suggestions on how to recognize and respond to them effectively in the heat of the clinical interview Incorporating decades of experience into his analysis Celani emphasizes the internalization of the therapist as a new good object and devotes entire sections to the treatment of histrionic obsessive and borderline personality disorders
