WITS: The Early Years Bruce Murray, 2022-09 WITS: The Early Years is a history of the University up to 1939. First established in 1922, the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, developed out of the South African School of Mines in Kimberley circa 1896. Examining the historical foundations, the struggle to establish a university in Johannesburg, and the progress of the University in the two decades prior to World War II, historian Bruce Murray captures the quality and texture of life in the early years of Wits University and the personalities who enlivened it and contributed to its growth. Particular attention is given to the wider issues and the challenges which faced Wits in its formative years. The book examines the role Wits came to occupy as a major centre of liberal thought and criticism in South Africa, its contribution to the development of the professions of the country, the relationship of its research to the wider society, and its attempts to grapple with a range of peculiarly South African problems such as the admission of black students to the University and the relations of English and Afrikaans-speaking white students within it. This edition of WITS: The Early Years is republished in the University's centenary year with a preface by Keith Breckenridge who writes: 'In the republication of Murray's two-volume history of Wits, readers have an opportunity to explore the often dramatic and contested story of this university. Murray produced an intimate, almost scandalous intellectual history of the institution that served as his home for practically half a century.'

Higher Education for the Public Good Brenda Leibowitz, 2012-11-01 The authors of this inspiring collection discuss philosophical approaches and present empirical and practical ideas for teaching and learning at university for the public good. Four major aspects of transforming universities are explored: the purpose and ethos of the university; its conception of graduate attributes; the way programmes and teaching are delivered; and the institution's approach to academics and their professional development. The book will be indispensable to all universities who are evaluating their own principles and practice.

Biko Xolela Mangcu, 2013-09-20 Steve Biko was an exceptional and inspirational leader, a pivotal figure in South African history. As a leading anti-apartheid activist and thinker,

Biko created the Black Consciousness Movement the grassroots organisation which would mobilise a large proportion of the black urban population His death in police custody at the age of just 30 robbed South Africa of one of its most gifted leaders Although the rudimentary facts of his life and death are well known there has until now been no in depth book on this major political figure and the impact of his life and tragic death Xolela Mangcu who knew Biko provides the first in depth look at the life of one of the most iconic figures of the anti apartheid movement whose legacy is still felt strongly today both in South Africa and worldwide in the global struggle for civil rights

Memoirs of Relentless Pursuit Dr. JJ Klaas, 2015-06-03 The memoir is a gripping South African story projected through the life of a young African boy from the rural outskirts of the Eastern Cape Province The boys life is a representation of hardships versus triumphs hopelessness versus determination and a profound sense of positive drive In line with Nelson Mandelas motto it is in your hands the memoir exemplifies that despite the challenging circumstances one remained focused to the possibilities of a better future The memoir is an exciting read of a touching yet positive story projected through different interphases of life

propos e Mandela's Kinsmen Timothy Gibbs,2014 Mandela s Kinsmen is the first study of the fraught relationships between the ANC leadership and their relatives who ruled apartheid s foremost tribal Bantustan the Transkei In the early 20th century the chieftaincies had often been well springs of political leadership In the Transkei political leaders such as Mandela used regionally rooted clan schooling and professional connections to vault to leadership they crafted expansive nationalisms woven from these kin identities But from 1963 the apartheid government turned South Africa s chieftaincies into self governing tribal Bantustans in order to shatter African nationalism While historians often suggest that apartheid changed everything African elites being eclipsed by an era of mass township and trade union protest and the chieftaincies co opted by the apartheid government there is another side to this story Drawing on newly discovered accounts and archives Gibbs reassesses the Bantustans and the changing politics of chieftaincy showing how local dissent within Transkei connected to wider political movements and ideologies Emphasizing the importance of elite politics he describes how the ANC in exile attempted to re enter South Africa through the Bantustans drawing on kin networks This failed in KwaZulu but Transkei provided vital support after a coup in 1987 and the alliances forged were important during the apartheid endgame Finally in counterpoint to Africanist debates that focus on how South African insurgencies narrowed nationalist thought and practice he maintains ANC leaders calmed South Africa s conflicts of the early 1990s by espousing an inclusive nationalism that incorporated local identities and that Mandela s kinsmen still play a key role in state politics today Timothy Gibbs is a Lecturer in African History University College London Southern Africa South Africa Namibia Lesotho Swaziland Botswana Jacana Report of the Committee of Enquiry Into Quinquennial Revision of University Subsidy Formulae South Africa. Committee of Enquiry into Quinquennial Revision of University Subsidy Formulae,1963 Higher Education and Capacity Building in Africa Hanne Kirstine Adriansen,Lene Madsen,Stig Jensen,2015-11-06 Higher education has recently been recognized as a key driver for societal growth in the Global South and capacity building of African universities is now widely included in donor policies The question is how do capacity building projects affect African universities researchers and students Universities and their scientific knowledges are often seen to have universal qualities therefore capacity building may appear straight forward Higher Education and Capacity Building in Africa contests such universalistic notions Inspired by ideas about the geography of scientific knowledge it explores what role specific places and relationships have in knowledge production and analyses how cultural experiences are included and excluded in teaching and research Thus the different chapters show how what constitutes legitimate scientific knowledge is negotiated and contested In doing so the chapters draw on discussions about the hegemony of Western thought in education and knowledge production The authors own experiences with higher education capacity building and knowledge production are discussed and used to contribute to the reflexive turn and rise of auto ethnography This book is a valuable resource for researchers and postgraduate students in education development studies African studies and human geography as well as anthropology and history Colour,

Moses, 2014-04-04 Affirmative Action Matters focuses specifically on affirmative action policies in higher education admissions the sphere that has been the most controversial in many of the nations that have such policies It brings together distinguished scholars from diverse nations to examine and discuss the historical political and philosophical contexts of affirmative action and clarify policy developments to further the meaningful equality of educational opportunity This unique volume includes both well established and emerging policies from the Americas Europe Africa and Asia policies which developed under a variety of political systems and target a range of underrepresented groups based on race ethnicity gender class social background or region Accessible and thought provoking case studies of affirmative action demonstrate that such policies are expanding to different countries and target populations. While some countries such as India have affirmative action policies that predate those in the United States, affirmative action is a recent development in countries such as Brazil and France. Legal or political pressures to move away from explicitly race-based policies in several countries have complicated affirmative action and make this assessment of international alternatives particularly timely. New or newly modified policies target a variety of disadvantaged groups based on geography, class, or caste in addition to race or sex. International scholars in six countries spanning five continents offer insights into their own countries' experiences to examine the implications of policy shifts from race toward other categories of disadvantage, to consider best practices in student admission policies, and to assess the future of affirmative action.

Black Student Politics, Higher Education and Apartheid Saleem Badat, 1999 Black Student Politics, Higher Education and Apartheid examines two black national student political organisations: the South African National Students Congress (SANSCO) and the South African Students Organisation (SASO), popularly associated with Black Consciousness. It analyses the ideologies, politics, and organisation of SASO and SANSCO and their intellectual, political, and social determinants. It also analyses their role in the educational, political, and social spheres and the factors that shaped their activities. Finally, it assesses their contributions to the popular struggle against apartheid education as well as against race, class, and gender oppression.
