UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of recurrent occupations, and other expressions of culture (including traditional and postmodern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of recurrent human activities and cultural movement
 - The built environment as the physical manifestation of the cultural process
- Expressions of culture in the built environment
 - Physical features, including features that subtly influence the urban design
 - Structures and related spaces
 - Religious practices and modes of urban organization, including
 - Urban form, including religious, secular, urban and the built environment
 - Language, ethnicity, race, and religious or cultural identity within the urban landscape
- Ethnic enclaves, areas that a place can be occupied by different groups of people, and each group of people tends to occupy its own space, often the same group tends to occupy the same space

Language, ethnicity and identity contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart
 - Ethnic enclaves, areas of a place occupied by different groups of people, and each group tends to occupy its own space
- Centripetal forces that pull people together
 - Ethnic enclaves, areas of a place occupied by different groups of people, and each group tends to occupy its own space

- Ethnic differences, areas of a place where the physical environment is different from one place to another
- Political differences, areas of a place where the physical environment is different from one place to another

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

- Globalization, referring to the process by which economic, cultural, and other systems of different cultures are integrated into a single system
- Digital media, referring to the process by which economic, cultural, and other systems of different cultures are integrated into a single system

Globalization, immigration and trade helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.
