we living in an age where we are more boredom prone Or are other people boring us Or could we be that boring person In our current information age we are constantly connected to technology and have so many varied ways to spend our leisure time that we should all surely never know what boredom feels like Yet boredom appears to be on the rise it seems that the more we have to stimulate us the more stimulation we crave In a quest to relieve our boredom we engage in dangerous risk taking from extreme sports to drugs to gambling to anti social behaviour or we overindulge in shopping or eating The Science of Boredom explores the causes and consequences of boredom in the fast paced twenty first century Parents are desperate to keep their children entertained during every waking moment the education system is geared towards interactivity and attention spans are dropping as we use multiple devices at all times But the world of work can be increasingly repetitive and routine and we are losing the ability to tolerate this everyday tedium Using Sandi Mann's own ground breaking research into boredom this book tells the story of how we act react and cope when we are bored and argues that there is a positive side to boredom It can be a catalyst for humour fun reflection creativity and inspiration The radical solution to the boredom problem is to harness it rather than try to avoid it Allowing yourself time away from constant stimuli can enrich your life We should all embrace our boredom and see the upside of our downtime Telehealth in Rural

Hospitals CJ Rhoads, 2017-07-27 Improving the quality of healthcare while increasing accessibility and lowering costs is a complex dilemma facing rural communities around the world The Center for Rural Pennsylvania believed that telehealth the use of electronic information and telecommunications technologies to support long distance clinical healthcare was a viable solution so it recently provided grants to conduct a thorough investigation into the factors involved Telehealth in Rural Hospitals Lessons Learned from Pennsylvania reports the outcome of this year long investigation Illustrating telehealth implementations in rural settings it supplies an overview of telehealth as well as an assessment of its economic impact The book skillfully intertwines the research and academic aspects of telehealth with helpful insights from the author One of the most important discoveries made by the author and her team of researchers is that all too often money is wasted by implementing telehealth for services that don't impact many people. This book shares valuable insights on using telehealth for integrative health practices that could improve the health of a greater portion of the population. This book illustrates how telehealth can indeed be the healthcare savior that some people believe it will be but only under the right circumstances. It details exactly what those circumstances are so that everyone including clinicians, patients, government entities, and vendors can steer toward the best future path. The author identifies the obstacles preventing wider implementation of telehealth and explains how recent federal legislation will affect telehealth implementation in rural communities. She also points out the folly of developing electronic health records before federal data standards are put into place. Government Reports Index, 1975

There is a newfound interest in architectural drawing. Some of the most forward-looking architects worldwide are reinventing it to discover the radical possibilities of contemporary architecture as a rich mix of the virtual and the actual. Architectural drawing is adapting to compensate for these new changes to the discipline and is being used to speculate on new paradigms of space and representation. This AD seeks to showcase the architects who are pushing the envelope of drawing in extraordinary ways and their insights into architecture's future spatial dexterity. The issue is built around an international group of architects involved in an ongoing KU Leuven Faculty of Architecture international drawing research project who are creating new drawing methodologies in new and exciting realms. Their projects are written about from the perspective of architectural representation by critics and commentators from across the globe, illustrating a cornucopia of graphic verve and talent in this highly contemporary and thought-provoking issue.
