Computer Safety, Reliability, and Security Bettina Buth, Gerd Rabe, Till Seyfarth, 2009-09-03 Computer based systems have become omnipresent commodities within our environment. While for a large variety of these systems such as transportation systems, nuclear or chemical plants or medical systems, their relation to safety is obvious, we often do not reflect that others are as directly related to risks concerning harm done to persons or matter as for example elevator control or mobile phones. At least we are not aware of the risk in our daily use of them. Safecomp as a community and a conference series has accompanied this development for 30 years up to Safecomp 2009 which was the 28th of the series. During this time the topics and methods as well as the community have undergone changes. These changes reflect the requirements of the above mentioned ubiquitous presence of safety related systems. Safecomp has always encouraged and will further encourage academia and industry to share and exchange their ideas and experiences. After 30 years we as the organizers of Safecomp 2009 found it imperative to take stock which methods found their way into the application areas which new approaches need to be checked for their practical applicability. As different application domains developed their own approaches over the previous decades we tried to attract people with different backgrounds for this conference. Though the years 2008 and 2009 were not easy with regard to the overall global economic situation we succeeded with this goal. Newark Electronics, 2009

Advances in Aerospace Guidance, Navigation and Control Florian Holzapfel, Stephan Theil, 2011-03-15 Over the last few decades both the aeronautics and space disciplines have greatly influenced advances in controls, sensors, data fusion and navigation. Many of those achievements that made the word aerospace synonymous with high tech were enabled by innovations in guidance, navigation and control. Europe has seen a strong transnational consolidation process in aerospace over the last few decades. Most of the visible products like commercial aircraft, fighters, helicopters, satellites, launchers or missiles are not made by a single country; they are the fruits of cooperation. No European country by itself hosts a specialized guidance, navigation and controls community large enough to cover the whole spectrum of disciplines. However, on a European scale, mutual exchange of ideas, concepts and solutions is enriching for all. The 1st CEAS Specialist Conference on Guidance, Navigation and Control is an attempt to bring this community together. This book is a selection of papers presented at the conference. All submitted papers have gone through a formal review process in compliance with good journal practices. The best papers have been recommended by the reviewers to be published in this book. Recent Developments in
