Reading Development and Teaching Morag Stuart, Rhona Stainthorp, 2015-12-07 This textbook will prove invaluable to teacher educators, teachers, educational psychologists and any professional who is involved with teaching children to read. It provides a detailed examination of the processes that are involved in achieving fluent word reading skills and ability to comprehend written texts. Understanding these processes and their development empowers teachers to select appropriate evidence-based teaching strategies and thus teach children more effectively. The book is in four parts. Part 1 provides the reader with a Tutorial Review covering essential knowledge about language and presenting the two dimensions of the Simple View of Reading. Part 2 concentrates on the word reading dimension with chapters on processes in skilled word reading, the development of these processes and practical advice on research-validated teaching methods to develop children's word reading skills. Part 3 turns to the language comprehension dimension with chapters on the comprehension of oral and written language and on teaching reading comprehension. Part 4 introduces the reader to assessment practices and methods of identifying children with difficulties in either or both dimensions of the Simple View and considers children with word reading difficulties and children with specific comprehension difficulties, describing effective evidence-based interventions for each type of difficulty.

The Linguistic Challenge of the Transition to Secondary School Alice Deignan, Duygu Candarli, Florence Oxley, 2022-12-30 This book provides a unique analysis and description of the linguistic challenges faced by school students as they move from primary to secondary school, a major transition which some students struggle with emotionally and academically. The study draws on a bespoke corpus of 2.5 million words of written materials and transcribed classroom recordings provided by the project's partner schools, combining quantitative and qualitative approaches to the corpus data to explore linguistic variation across school levels, registers and subjects. It describes the procedures of corpus compilation and analysis of written and spoken academic language, showing how modern corpus tools can be applied to this far-reaching social and educational issue, uncovering differences and similarities between the academic language that school children are exposed to at primary and secondary school, contrasting this against the backdrop of the non-academic language that they encounter outside school. This book is important reading for advanced students and researchers in corpus linguistics, applied linguistics and teacher education. It carries implications for policymakers and schools looking to support students at this critical point in their schooling. Children's Literacy Practices and Preferences Jane Sunderland, Steven Dempster, Joanne Thistlethwaite, 2016-03-31 Over the past few decades there have been intense debates in education surrounding children's literacy achievement and ways to promote reading particularly that of boys The Harry Potter book series has been received enthusiastically by very many children boys and girls alike but has also been constructed in popular and media discourses as a children's particularly a boys literacy saviour Children's Literacy Practices and Preferences Harry Potter and Beyond provides empirical evidence of young people's reported literacy practices and views on reading and of how they see how the Harry Potter series as having impacted their own literacy The volume explores and debunks some of the myths surrounding Harry Potter and literacy and contextualizes these within children's wider reading

The Empathy Gap William Collins, 2021 From the ebook Preface This book majors on the presentation of empirical evidence in the form of data The most digestible form for communicating such material is through the use of Tables and Figures generally graphs Consequently the book has a great many Tables and Figures and the latter are often in colour Viewing on a device capable of rendering colours is therefore recommended although monochrome will be adequate in most cases The Empathy Gap proposes the thesis that men and boys are extensively disadvantaged across many areas of life including in education healthcare genital integrity criminal justice domestic abuse working hours taxation pensions paternity homelessness suicide sexual offences and access to their own children after parental separation The claim is justified in the book by empirical evidence mostly but not exclusively from the UK involving nearly 1 000 references 179 Figures and 49 Tables To most people of both sexes this will appear to be a perverse perspective as disadvantage has become the province of women girls and minorities not males Yet the empirical case supporting the disadvantages suffered by men and boys is undeniable to the objective mind But if this is so why is the popular perception that males are privileged whereas disadvantage is the province of the opposite sex Why do the male disadvantages go largely unremarked by both sexes if they are so pervasive Presenting the case for widespread and substantial male disadvantage is also a challenge to the usual hegemonic paradigm of feminist theory These issues are addressed within The Empathy Gap by presenting an entirely different orientation on the social psychology of relations between the sexes Out goes the idea of an oppressive patriarchy Instead a man's participation in the human pair bond is seen to be altruistic a phenomenon arising originally from evolution and enacted in the individual via the emotional psyche This is the origin of an asymmetry in the perception of the sexes which normalises the preferencing of females and therefore inevitably disadvantages males as a corollary The successful evolved strategy involves male utility and relative male disposability the latter being facilitated by a muted empathy for males by both sexes the empathy gap Rather than working to overcome this male disposability as a true egalitarian movement would have done feminism has fed upon it and amplified it The feminist project relies upon the true state of affairs remaining unacknowledged and the empathy gap is instrumental in its own invisibility In respect of this theory the author makes no claim for originality The ideas presented have been circulating within the sub culture for decades However the focus of the book is to show how these ideas are manifest in practice

Reimagining the Purpose of Schools and Educational Organisations Anthony Montgomery, Ian Kehoe, 2015-12-22 This book features a diverse set of perspectives all focused towards questioning the role schools actually play in society and more importantly the role they could potentially play Containing papers presented at the 1st International Conference on Reimagining Schooling which took place in Thessaloniki Greece June 2013 bringing together international and multi disciplinary perspectives on the future of education and schools Combines diverse specialties analyzing schools as organizations and questions the purpose of schools The book explores the current purpose of schooling and debates what roles and values young people currently learn from schooling It examines such issues as the impact of Neoliberalism the pursuit of the socially just school and imagining contemporary schools beyond their consumerist mentality Tackling development in the growing economic and social crisis in Europe and offering transformative analysis of the psychology and decision making involved for innovating teaching learning socio economic and policy contexts In addition the book shows different ways young people can be creatively involved in reimagining schooling It also details both innovative and radical ideas that currently exist about school transformation such as building learning partnerships for all and creating synergies across formal and informal settings of learning Raising important questions for the future of the relationship between teacher and pupil and positive and pro active behavior There is a growing realization that schools fail to accommodate diverse types of learning and that their purpose is not simply about education Featuring academics and practitioners from many different disciplines this book boldly questions the values that currently permeate school walls and suggests ways that schooling itself can be made better
