Joint ventures in the Flag Boshielo Irrigation Scheme, South Africa van Koppen, Barbara, Tapela, B. N., Mapedza, Everisto, 2018-01-31

Water is Life Anne Hellum, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, 2015-10-19 This book approached water and sanitation as an African gender and human rights issue Empirical case studies from Kenya Malawi South Africa and Zimbabwe show how coexisting international national and local regulations of water and sanitation respond to the ways in which different groups of rural and urban women gain access to water for personal domestic and livelihood purposes The authors who are lawyers sociologists political scientists and anthropologists explore how women cope in contexts where they lack secure rights and participation in water governance institutions formal and informal The research shows how women as producers of family food rely on water from multiple sources that are governed by community based norms and institutions which recognise the right to water for livelihood How these common pool water resources due to protection gaps in both international and national law are threatened by large scale development and commercialisation initiatives facilitated through national permit systems is a key concern The studies demonstrate that existing water governance structures lack mechanisms which make them accountable to poor and vulnerable water users on the ground most importantly women The findings thus underscore the need to intensify measures to hold states accountable not just in water services provision but in assuring the basic human right to clean drinking water and sanitation and also to protect water for livelihoods

Policies, Legislation and Organizations Related to Water in South Africa, with Special Reference to the Olifants River Basin H. Thompson, C. M. Stimie, E. Richters, S. Perret, 2001 The study is reported in two Working Papers Working Paper 17 reports the findings of the HIM exercise This paper contains the policies legislation and organizations relevant for understanding of the HIM for the Olifants river basin It also includes the historical development of the institutional framework in the basin as this history has left a profound imprint on the South African society at large and is still dictating in many cases the interactions between the different organizations This background on previous and current institutions and policies at the different government levels is used to shed light on the current relationships between different organizations in the basin Although focusing on the Olifants the description provided is applicable to the rest of South Africa in broad terms

The transformation of irrigation boards into water user associations in South Africa: Case studies of the Lower Olifants, Great Letaba and Vaalharts water user associations. Volume 1 Seshoka, Jetrickde Lange, Willem Faysse, Nicolas, 2004 The first case study is the Lower Olifants WUA in the Western Cape which was the first WUA in South Africa Its principal functions are to operate and maintain a canal that enables irrigation throughout the year in an arid region Around 9 200 hectares are irrigated mainly for vineyards The second case study relates to the Great Letaba WUA in the Limpopo Province This WUA manages the allocation of water downstream of two large dams near the town of Tzaneen An area of 12 500 hectares is irrigated in the river valley mainly for fruit tree farming The third case study assesses the Vaalharts WUA which is situated in both Northern Cape and North West provinces This WUA is one of the largest irrigation schemes in South Africa 37 100 hectares overall It manages mainly a canal that takes water from the Vaal River to irrigate commercial farms and downstream the Taung Irrigation Scheme in the former Bophuthatswana homeland

Water Governance for Sustainable Development Sylvain Perret, Stefano Farolfi, Rashid Hassan, 2013-06-17 Good management of water resources universally identified as a key aspect of poverty reduction agriculture and food security has proven in practice as difficult to achieve as it is eagerly sought This book edited and authored by leading authorities on water resource management examines the recent changes in governance institutions economics and policies of water covering developing transitional and developed countries with special emphasis on southern African case studies The book examines how water policies institutions and governance have shifted in recent years from supply driven quantitative centrally controlled management to more demand sensitive decentralized participatory approaches Such a move often also implies cost recovery principles resource allocation among competing sectors and privatization The case studies demonstrate that the new policies and legal frameworks have been difficult to implement and often fall short of initial expectations Using an accessible multidisciplinary approach that integrates economics sociology geography and policy analysis the book untangles the issues and presents best practices for policy and decision makers governments and regulators NGOs and user groups service providers and researchers The overall aim is to show how good water governance structures can be developed and implemented for the benefit of all

An Inconvenient Youth Fiona Forde, 2012-09-06 Julius Malema has risen to prominence and power with meteoric speed From impoverished origins in a Limpopo township he has before the age of 30 amassed the political and economic power to command the entire youth wing of the ANC and to own several substantial luxury homes The sources of his wealth are befogged by speculation and mystery but his appeal to the massed ranks of the township and village poor of his country is visible for all to see And his inflammatory style his theme song is Shoot the Boer his contrarian tendencies and his showmanship have rapidly brought him to the attention of the world So troublesome has he become that the old guard of the ANC have gone to great lengths to shackle and reprimand him and he is now formally in dispute with them An Inconvenient Youth traces Malema's life from his early years in Limpopo to his joining the student structures of the ANC in the early 1990s and his rapid rise through the party's ranks to become the president of the ANC Youth League in 2008 Forde analyses the sources of Malema's wealth exploring his seamless approach to business and politics She situates Malema within the ANC's history and shows in unprecedented detail how he has perfected the practices that characterise a new struggle in which individuals extend their personal wealth and political power at the expense of the people This insightful meticulously researched account explores how a brave child has grown to become a grave inconvenience not only to the ANC but also due to his style of politics to South Africa's fledgling democracy

Gaffney's Local Government in South Africa, 2009

Building a Capable State Ian Palmer, Nishendra Moodley, Susan Parnell, 2017-11-15 The sustainable development goals signed in 2016 marked a new phase in global development thinking one which is focused on ecologically and fiscally sustainable human settlements Few countries offer a better testing ground for their attainment than post apartheid South Africa Since the coming to power of the African National Congress the country has undergone a policy making revolution driven by an urgent need to improve access to services for the country s black majority A quarter century on from the fall of apartheid Building a Capable State asks what lessons can be learned from the South African experience The book assesses whether the South African government has succeeded in improving service delivery focusing on the vital sectors of water and sanitation energy roads public transport and housing Emphasizing the often overlooked role of local government institutions and finance the book demonstrates that effective service delivery can have a profound impact on the social structure of emerging economies and must form an integral part of any future development strategy A comprehensive examination of urban service delivery in the global South Building a Capable State is essential reading for students and practitioners across the social sciences public finance and engineering sectors

Secondary Cities and Development Lochner Marais, Etienne Nel, Ronnie Donaldson, 2016-05-20 The role secondary cities play in the global space economy and national urban hierarchies is increasingly receiving attention from scholars and international agencies most notably the Cities Alliance Secondary Cities and Development considers the role of secondary cities through the lens of South Africa a middle income country with characteristics of both the developed and developing worlds This book brings together a broad overview of international literature on secondary cities in South Africa and mirrors them against global experience Chapters emphasize the importance of secondary cities as regional services areas their potential roles in rural development the vulnerabilities to which they are prone and their significant potential By means of review six South African case studies and an assessment of contemporary policy approaches towards these cities this unique volume provides insight into a spectrum of globally significant challenges This book would be of interest to academics and policy makers working in urban studies or regional development

Environmental History of Water Petri S. Juuti, Tapio Katko, H. Vuorinen, 2007-02-01 The World Water Development Report 2003 pointed out the extensive problem that Sadly the tragedy of the water crisis is not simply a result of lack of water but is essentially one of poor water governance Cross sectional and historical intra national and international comparisons have been recognized as a valuable method of study in different sectors of human life including technologies and governance Environmental History of Water fills this gap with its main focus being on water and sanitation services and their evolution Altogether 34 authors have written 30 chapters for this multidisciplinary book which divides into four chronological parts from ancient cultures to the challenges of the 21st century each with its introduction and conclusions written by the editors The authors represent such disciplines as history of technology history of public health public policy development studies sociology engineering and management sciences This book emphasizes that the history of water and sanitation services is strongly linked to current water management and policy issues as well as future implications Geographically the book consists of local cases from all inhabited continents The key penetrating themes of the book include especially population growth health water consumption technological choices and governance There is great need for general long term analysis at the global level Lessons learned from earlier societies help us to understand the present crisis and challenges This new book Environmental History of Water provides this analysis by studying these lessons
