1.1.1 An organism consisting of only one cell.

- A. Multicellular
- B. Unicellular
- C. Autotrophic
- D. Heterotrophic

1.1.2 An organism that harbours a parasite.

- A. Pathogenic
- B. Nucleoid
- C. Acellular
- D. Host

1.1.3 Viruses can infect bacteria, protists, plants and animals. Viruses that infect bacteria are called

- A. Bacteriophages
- B. Pathogenic
- C. Parasites
- D. Microscopic

1.1.4 Plant or fungal microorganisms that feed on dead or decaying tissues of other organisms.

- A. Heterotrophic
- B. Eukaryotic
- C. Prokaryotic
- D. Saprophytic

1.1.5 A small, circular, double-stranded DNA molecule that is distinct from a cell's chromosomal DNA.

- A. Binary fission
- B. Endospore
- C. Plasmid
- D. Flagellum

[5 x 2 = 10]

1.2 Give the correct biological term for each of the following descriptions.

Write down only the term next to the question number (1.2.1 to 1.2.5) on your FOLIO PAPER.

advanced materials and significant changes to the vehicle body are being driven by increasingly stringent fuel economy and greenhouse gas emission standards. By the end of the next decade cars and light duty trucks will be more fuel efficient, weigh less, emit less air pollutants, have more safety features and will be more expensive to purchase relative to current vehicles. Though the gasoline powered spark ignition engine will continue to be the dominant powertrain configuration even through 2030, such vehicles will be equipped with advanced technologies, materials, electronics and controls and aerodynamics. And by 2030 the deployment of alternative methods to propel and fuel vehicles and alternative modes of transportation including autonomous vehicles will be well underway. What are these new technologies, how will they work and will some technologies be more effective than others? Written to inform The United States Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) and greenhouse gas (GHG) emission standards, this new report from the National Research Council is a technical evaluation of costs, benefits and implementation issues of fuel reduction technologies for next generation light duty vehicles. Cost Effectiveness and Deployment of Fuel Economy Technologies for Light Duty Vehicles estimates the cost, potential efficiency improvements and barriers to commercial deployment of technologies that might be employed from 2020 to 2030. This report describes these promising technologies and makes recommendations for their inclusion on the list of technologies applicable for the 2017-2025 CAFE standards.

Design for Wellbeing Ann Petermans, Rebecca Cain, 2019-11-04. Design for Wellbeing charts the development and application of design research to improve the personal and societal wellbeing and happiness of people. It draws together contributions from internationally leading academics and designers to demonstrate the latest thinking and research on the design of products, technologies, environments, services and experiences for wellbeing. Part I starts by conceptualising wellbeing and takes an in depth look at the rise of the design for wellbeing movement. Part II then goes on to demonstrate design for wellbeing in practice through a broad range of domains from products and environments to services. Among others we see emerging trends in the design of interiors and urban spaces to support wellbeing, designing to enable and support connectedness and social interaction and designing for behaviour change to tackle unhealthy eating behaviour in children. Significantly, the body of work on subjective wellbeing, design for happiness is increasing and several case studies are provided on this demonstrating how design can contribute to support the wellbeing of people. Part III provides practical guidance for designing for wellbeing through a range of examples of tools, methods and approaches which are highly user centric, participatory, critical and speculative. Finally, the book concludes in Part IV with a look at future challenges for design for wellbeing. This book provides students, researchers and practitioners with a detailed assessment of design for wellbeing, taking a distinctive global approach to design practice and theory in context. Design for Wellbeing concerns designers and organisations but also defines its broader contribution to society, culture and economy.

Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee on the Beneficial Use of Graywater and Stormwater: An Assessment of Risks, Costs, and Benefits, 2016-07-30 Chronic and episodic water shortages are becoming common in many regions of the United States and population growth in water scarce regions further compounds the challenges. Increasingly alternative water sources such as graywater untreated wastewater that does not include water from the toilet but generally includes water from bathroom sinks showers bathtubs clothes washers and laundry sinks and stormwater water from rainfall or snow that can be measured downstream in a pipe culvert or stream shortly after the precipitation event are being viewed as resources to supplement scarce water supplies rather than as waste to be discharged as rapidly as possible. Graywater and stormwater can serve a range of non potable uses including irrigation toilet flushing washing and cooling although treatment may be needed. Stormwater may also be used to recharge groundwater which may ultimately be tapped for potable use. In addition to providing additional sources of local water supply harvesting stormwater has many potential benefits including energy savings pollution prevention and reducing the impacts of urban development on urban streams. Similarly the reuse of graywater can enhance water supply reliability and extend the capacity of existing wastewater systems in growing cities. Despite the benefits of using local alternative water sources to address water demands many questions remain that have limited the broader application of graywater and stormwater capture and use. In particular limited information is available on the costs benefits and risks of these projects and beyond the simplest applications many state and local public health agencies have not developed regulatory frameworks for full use of these local water resources. To address these issues Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies analyzes the risks costs and benefits on various uses of graywater and stormwater. This report examines technical economic regulatory and social issues associated with graywater and stormwater capture for a range of uses including non potable urban uses irrigation and groundwater recharge. Using Graywater and Stormwater to Enhance Local Water Supplies considers the quality and suitability of water for reuse treatment and storage technologies and human health and environmental risks of water reuse. The findings and recommendations of this report will be valuable for water managers citizens of states under a current drought and local and state health and environmental agencies.

Artificial Intelligence and the Environmental Crisis Keith Ronald Skene, 2019-12-19 A radical and challenging book which argues that artificial intelligence needs a completely different set of foundations based on ecological intelligence rather than human intelligence if it is to deliver on the promise of a better world. This can usher in the greatest transformation in human history an age of re integration. Our very existence is dependent upon our context within the Earth System and so surely artificial intelligence must also be grounded within this context embracing emergence interconnectedness and real time feedback. We discover many positive outcomes across the societal economic and environmental arenas and discuss how this transformation can be delivered. Key Features Identifies a key weakness in current AI thinking that threatens any hope of a better world. Highlights the importance of realizing that systems theory is an essential foundation for any technology that hopes to positively transform our world Emphasizes the need for a radical new approach to AI based on ecological systems Explains why ecosystem intelligence not human intelligence offers the best framework for AI Examines how this new approach will impact on the three arenas of society environment and economics ushering in a new age of re integration Fall-out from Fukushima Giulia de Togni, 2021-11-24 This book shows how the Fukushima plaintiffs have challenged narratives of safety and risk containment produced by TEPCO and the Japanese government through offering new empirical data on risk perceptions and life choices of some nuclear evacuees Considering the Fukushima evacuees disappearance from public discourse in Japan the book engages with theoretical writings on risk neoliberal governmentality and citizen science Chapters draw on a wide range of anthropologically related methodologies including socio linguistics participant observation and qualitative interviews Themes of self governance resistance gender kinship class and social change surface throughout setting the Fukushima experience in a broad historical social and comparative context This is the first ethnographic account of the Fukushima litigation and the first extensive qualitative study documenting the worldviews and living conditions of nuclear evacuees who moved outside Fukushima Prefecture with a particular focus on underrepresented groups single mothers elderly and disabled evacuees The history of industrial disasters and the role of citizens in shaping environmental policy in Japan is also evaluated Fall out from Fukushima sets out to be a manifesto for understanding and supporting post nuclear disaster societies and will appeal to students and scholars of social legal and linguistic anthropology science and technology studies as well as Japanese studies
